

INDEX

Opinion 2
 Campus View 3
 News 4
 Sports 11
 Classifieds 14
 Crossword 15

TODAY

A celebration of the exodus of Jews from Egypt will happen today in the Gerlinger Alumni Lounge at 7 p.m.

INSIDE

Keiko the killer whale might be released from the Oregon Coast Aquarium in 1998

9

The men's and women's track and field team won the Pepsi Team Invitational Saturday

11

WEATHER

Mostly cloudy.
 High 65. Low 45.

Oregon Daily Emerald

University of Oregon
 Eugene, Oregon

An independent newspaper
 Volume 98, Issue 133

Miner/Unger win ASUO post

OTHER RESULTS

EMU BOARD

Seat 1:
 Emily Robertson 743
 Write-in 26

Seat 2:
 Sam Bessey 756
 Write-in 14

Seat 4:
 Jenna Wasson 338*
 Stacey Wolfe 221*
 Shane Peterson 198
 Write-in 13

Seat 6:
 Geneva Wortman 633
 Write-in 10

PROGRAMS FINANCE

Seat 3:
 Josh Dobson 171
 Greg Labavitch 303*
 Dan Reid 332*
 Write-in 7

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT FINANCE

Seat 7:
 Travis R. Layton 275
 Michael P. Price 497
 Write-in 7

Seat 8:
 Kent Black 558
 Write-in 7

Seat 9:
 Nick Bonnichsen 206
 Taryn Tarver Thompson 398
 Write-in 9

STUDENT SENATE AT-LARGE ACADEMIC

Seat 10 Undeclared:
 Rheanna Cash 62

Seat 11 Undeclared:
 Elliott Dale 62
 Write-in 3

Seat 12 AAA/Interdisciplinary:
 Tarn Allen 19
 Laura Kane 31
 Write-in 1

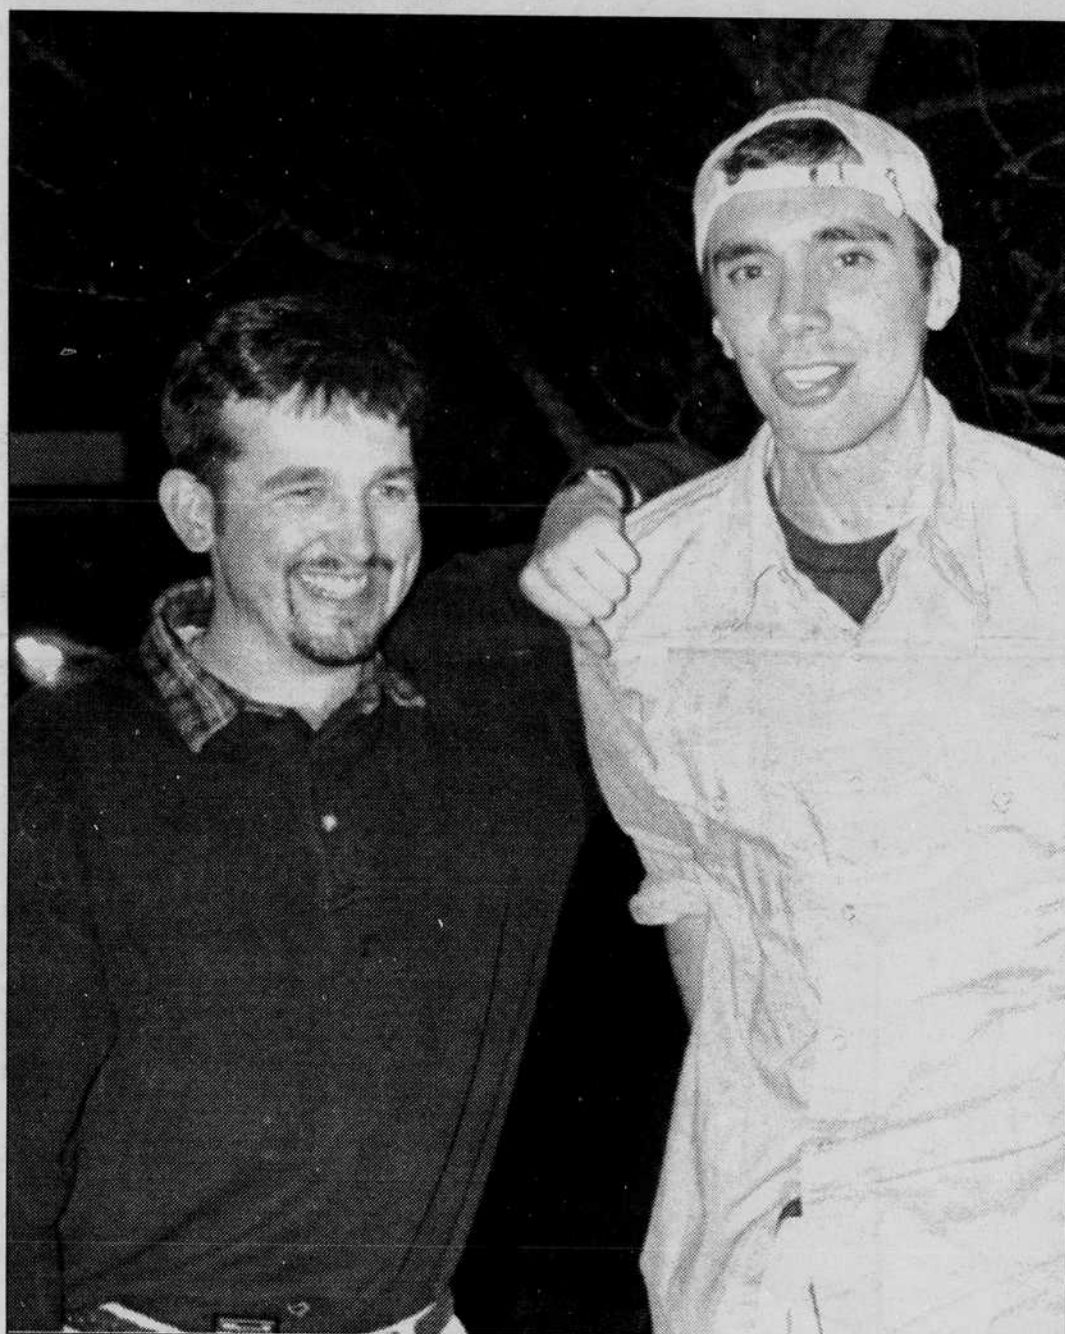

Seat 12 Arts & Letters/Journalism:
 Gillian Brinegar 64*
 Mark Hemingway 59
 Benjamin Kuhlman 16
 K.C. McCarthy 32
 Tamir 68*
 Write-in 1

Seat 14 Social Sciences:
 Michael Olson 78
 Write-in 3

Seat 15 Social Sciences:
 Jonathan Collegio 61
 Jennifer Luck 79

Seat 17 Business:
 Jeff Kershner 78
 Write-in 2

Seat 18 Graduate/Law:
 Lisa Greif 43

Bill Miner, left, and Ben Unger will step into the ASUO presidency and vice presidency, next year.

ELECTIONS: The pair will automatically advance to office as they pick up the majority vote of the primary election

By Angie Suchy
 Student Activities Editor

This pair has been "all over the place" during the last month, Bill Miner said.

And that's why Miner and Ben Unger received more than half the votes in the primary election to automatically become the next ASUO President and Vice President, respectively, they claim.

"From the greek system to all the [ASUO] programs to the dorms, we pounded the pavement," Miner said.

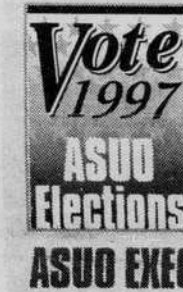

The rigorous campaigning was enough for the duo to narrowly win the election — and five recounts finalized the win on Saturday. After three counts, the pair was within a margin of a few votes. At that point, Miner and Unger submitted a written request for a recount, Miner said.

"The counts were so close, we felt that to ensure fairness, five would be an accurate number," said Dave Whipple, ASUO Elections publicity coordinator. "We've spent over 40 hours on this to ensure accuracy."

Miner said the last time president and vice presidential candidates obtained over a 51 percent voter margin in the primary election was five years ago when Bobby Lee ran.

Miner pointed out one reason he and

THE RESULTS

Miner/Unger	744
Boyd/Oberiter	183
Smith/Shelton	174
Ositis/Terry	163
Smith/John	126
Madrid/Sal 2000	92
Write-in	2

Turn to ELECTIONS, Page 4

The Legacy of a Design

The University has a long history and the most visible aspect of that legacy is the campus plan. Begun by Ellis F. Lawrence, the early dean of the School of Architecture, later designers have added to his original system of quadrangles.

See story, page 6 & 7
 Part one of five

International Night celebrates 30 years of success

CELEBRATION: International Night 1997 continues a tradition of education, fun and culture

By Carl Yeh
 Freelance Editor

At first sight, International Night 1997 was suspiciously similar to last year's event — same EMU Ballroom, same video camera setup and same maximum capacity crowd. However, what made this year's celebration of diversity different were new performances, more variety in food, different countries represented and more volunteers, said Julius Darmali, International Students Association (ISA) co-director.

Last year 150 performers and volunteers were involved overall. This year, more student unions, as well as more community members were involved.

The theme of the 34th annual International Night was "Perspectives." The coordinators of the program were hoping to bring those perspectives to the University community.

"Long lasting friendships are forged by the diverse people cooperating on this project," Darmali said.

"We really thank all the student volunteers for making this possible. The biggest challenge every year is to get people committed to donating the time needed to make this a world-class performance," he said. "We are in our 34th year, and we really are world-class."

"I'll be excited when I see the smiles on people's faces when it's all over. They are

Turn to CELEBRATION, Page 4

Emila Priyadi performs the Tari Pendet during International Night Sunday evening.