Also hiring for summer term

The Oregon Daily Emerald is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is committed to a culturally diverse workplace.

Students flee from OPS
Two male students carrying two cases of beer in a parking lot near the Hamilton Complex run from an OPS officer.

Suddenly serving it up
Women's tennis coach Jack Griffin says Alissa Wygonowski, the number one singles player, expects her to become the first nationally ranked Duck in singles.

Intern files to impeach ASUO Executive
A formal grievance filed Monday afternoon, demands the impeachment of the ASUO president and vice president, Scott Austin. The grievance, signed by Scott Austin, charges preferential hiring practices and false advertising. Austin works as an ASUO intern. He disagreed with how the ASUO went on the Constitution Court. The ASUO went on the Constitution Court and then appointed the position and then appointed undergruads Jerry Inger. Vice President Ben Inger said the ASUO had specifically looked for an undergruad to round out the Court. That illegally discriminated against grad students, Austin said in his grievance. The ASUO also broke the law by not serving in its advertisements that the seat would only be open to undergruads. The advertisement, which ran in the Emerald in November, said only that the ASUO is an affirmative action, equal opportunity. Americans with Disabilities Act says. It did not say the position was only open to undergruads. That's because there was no reason to limit applications, Inger said. 300, the ASUO president, said he had read the law and ASUO president said he had read the law and ASUO president said he had read the law and ASUO president said he had read the law.

Future of city celebration is uncertain
Funding shortages are forcing event planners to rethink the annual Eugene Celebration.

Stop signs
The Rape Victim Support Center is looking for stop signs to be placed at various locations in Eugene. The signs will read "RAPE IS ANY UNWANTED SEXUAL CONTACT."

Rhythm & Reviews
"Great Expectations" - The Dickens classic is loosely adapted for the big screen.
"Blood Wedding" - Lorca's play is filled with both poetic and musical elements.
