He came to play.

Armed with every conceivable racquet, board, and bike; loaded with all manner of puck, stick, round ball, softball and mitt; what we have here is a player. A go-getter. A true sports vehicle. And a key to his mettle is the gasoline he uses. Chevron Supreme with Techron.* See, he was designed to play his best with a high octane gasoline. And Chevron Supreme has the high octane he thirsts for. So call him a game breaker. Call him a franchise player. Call him anything, but give him Chevron Supreme with Techron. He'll call you a team player, and that's a very sporting thing to say.

Senate approves money for MEChA

By Kristina Rudinskas
Student Activities Reporter

The Student Senate approved a $500 food line item request for MEChA's Cinco de Mayo celebration at Oak Hill School at the Lane Community College on Sunday, May 3 from 5 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.. The request will help fund meat, beverages and desert for approximately 200 people. The celebration is free to students and the public and will consist of an awards ceremony, entertainment, music and food.

Senator Jenna Wasson moved for immediate approval of the request, explaining the Cinco de Mayo celebration was a "good thing" and the food line item request was designed for this kind of need.

The Senate postponed a request by the Women's Center until next week for $842.50 for a food line item request to reimburse money spent during the Women of Color Conference dinner during the weekend of February 6th and 7th. The dinner cost approximately $8.00 per person and catering cost $12.00 per person. The Women's Center did not receive the bill for the dinner until last week.

"I am uncomfortable spending student fees on food that was used for fund raising purposes," Wasson said. The Senate postponed the request until more information about the money raised from the event could be determined.

The Women's Center will return next week to the Senate with more information about the amount of money raised from the event.

The International Student Association also postponed a request for funding until next week. The Senate also decided to plan for a transition meeting to help train new student senators before the last Senate meeting on May 20th.

Parks: Three levy proposals discussed

One is a five-year tax levy that would cost residents $119 a year and produce $30 million in revenue for parks. Another is a 10-year tax bond that would cost residents $88 a year and produce $44.3 million in revenue. The last is a 20-year bond that would end up producing $58.7 million.

However, making the tax measure more appealing to voters by increasing the number of years voters have to pay it off presents a problem of its own — the city will still grow during the time the levies are extracting public funds. Thus, the burden on the park system would increase over time, rendering the levy even more inadequate to deal with the full cost of improvements.

"We're falling farther and farther behind," Culler said.

The maintenance of different types of parks was brought up, an issue that is associated with cost. Three specific types of parks were identified: natural areas, neighborhood parks and athletic fields.

Natural areas involve lower maintenance costs, while neighborhood parks and athletic fields demand more.

Overall, residents at the meeting were skeptical of being able to meet the need for creating new neighborhood parks and athletic fields, but wanted the city to have the measure focus on acquiring more low-maintenance natural areas and upgrading existing athletic fields.
