reer, and further proof that Jones, like Greene, could be a mainstay on the victory podium at international track and field meets for years to come.

"This shows that American sprinters are not playing anymore," Greene said. "We're out for business, and when I step on the track, I mean all business."

Greene backed up his talk with action later in the meet by beating a field that included world-record holder Michael Johnson in the 200 meters.

"We're out for business, and when I step on the track, I mean all business."

Greene's winning time of 19.88 was again aided by 2.03 mps winds, but that didn't stop him from speaking his mind about the success he believes he and Jones, who also won the long jump with a mark of 23 feet, 11 3/4 inches on Sunday, will see in the future.

"I'm sure I can speak for her when I say this is only the beginning," Greene said. "We're here to stay. We're not going anywhere, and we're going to be here for a long time."

For fans of international track and field, including the 13,721 who witnessed the spectacle at Hayward Field on Sunday, that has to be welcome news.
