Tents go up on the Humpy Lumpy near Bean Complex to welcome new students for IntroDUCkTion.

Freshmen: Musical spoof featured they should prepare for possible changes in their children.

Hamilton said they will also talk about grades and finances with the parents. Parents should work out how their children will receive money, she said. Parents also need to discuss whether the college student needs to get a job. Hamilton also advised parents to not turn their children's rooms into the "weight room" or "guest room." "They need a place to come back to where they don't feel like a guest," she said.

Also, many IntroDUCkTion participants and their parents get a further taste of college life by spending a night in the residence halls.

For $18 per person, they also get a taste of residence hall food as well as a night in the Bean Complex.

And, of course, the Summer Orientation Staff will present "A Quack Line" again. In its 10th year, "A Quack Line" is a spoof of the musical "A Chorus Line." The musical incorporates information about campus services and reduces the anxiety of new students, Winter said. The script is rewritten each year and features the vocal talents of all the Summer Orientation Staff.

Although IntroDUCkTion is run similarly from year to year, Winter does plan two changes: earlier placement testing and two separate dinner times.

"We figured it was better to have placement testing earlier because people are less tired, and we wanted the dinner lines shorter [than last year]," she said.

Winter, who worked with IntroDUCkTion as a student for two years before becoming the director, said she has enjoyed watching the program grow. "I enjoy seeing how the program really aids people in their transition to college," she said.

Hamilton also said IntroDUCkTion is a valuable experience.

"IntroDUCkTion is a test to see if students can leave home," she said. "It's a chance to test the waters and make sure everything is going to be OK when they do go to school in the fall."

NEWS BRIEFS

Doctor to speak on AIDS conference

Dr. Stephen Tabet, who recently returned from the World AIDS Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, will speak to two groups July 14. Tabet will discuss the latest information presented at the Geneva conference, including news on improved treatments and medication. Tabet is an instructor at the University of Washington School of Medicine.

The first session is open to the general public, while the second is tailored to members of the medical community. The event is sponsored by HIV Alliance of Eugene. For more information, call 342-5088.

Thurston cafeteria makeover planned

A group of volunteers are planning to remodel the Thurston High School cafeteria. The cafeteria was the site of the May 21 shooting that left two students dead and more than 20 injured. Some students have found it difficult to return, preferring instead to eat their lunches in other areas of the school or outside. The group in charge of the remodeling is seeking donations of paint or other supplies and financial assistance. For more information, call 344-9788 or 344-9291.
