Health

pharmaceutical companies were all at the EMU Fir Room to offer their knowledge to students. They also offered a multitude of free treats: condoms, female condoms and tubes of Astroglide.

"We're here to let students know that we support sexual awareness," said Valerie Wright, events coordinator of the Women's Center.

Information was available for all students. The Health Education table offered information on sexual protection for men, women, lesbians and gay men. Information on birth control methods, sexual transmitted diseases and other health issues abounded.

"Between all these tables you could find any information you need," said Mariah Bowden, peer health educator.

Sarah Skidmore covers the health center, counseling center, alumni association, AAA school and the business school for the Emerald. She can be reached via e-mail at slskidm@gladstone.uoregon.edu.

Airport

AirTech is helping the airport determine what is needs for services and facilities will be in the future. Together, they determine items that the airport must respond to.

"As you do those, then it falls in line with how your business is supposed to progress thought the years," Bell said.

It is a little premature to discuss the airport's current goals, she said.

"It may come back and they're going, 'You guys don't need to do an awful lot.'" Bell said.

Mike Hines covers the Eugene police for the Emerald. He can be reached via e-mail at
