Distinguished professor to speak on Tuesday

Jim Mohr, professor of history and one of three distinguished professors, will speak at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Gerlinger Lounge.

Mohr is a leading historian of 19th-century American social policy. His lecture, entitled "How Did Medical Malpractice Become Such a Huge Problem in the United States?" is sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences and is open to the public.

Mohr began teaching at the University in 1992. He is considered an expert on abortion policy and has twice testified before the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee on the subject. Mohr is also the author of a book, Doctors and the Law.

CAS awards three distinguished professorships per school year from the humanities, physical science and social sciences. Candidates are nominated by their departments and selected by a committee made up of current endowed chair holders and emeriti faculty.

Other recipients of the distinguished professorships are Tom Givon, professor of linguistics, and Frank Stahl, professor of biology. Givon will lecture Feb. 22, and Stahl will lecture April 20.

CIP seeking lunch buddy volunteers

How would you like to eat lunch with someone new?

The Community Internship Program, located in the EMU Breezeway, is offering an opportunity for students to volunteer for the Committed Partners for Youth Lunch Buddies program.

Student volunteers will eat lunch once a week with an at-risk child from either Willagillespie Elementary school in Eugene or Braton Elementary school in Springfield.

Students can choose an elementary school student from the first to fifth grades.

For the rest of the school year, students will spend one hour per week visiting and eating with the child during lunch break.

Community Internship Program

The purpose of the program is to act as a mentor to youth and hopefully develop a meaningful relationship that the child may not otherwise have. The children's parents have authorized them to be part of the program.

There are children at both schools, 15 at Braton Elementary, who have the permission slip signed but have not found a lunch buddy.

If you would like to be that special lunch buddy and eat your peanut butter and jelly sandwich with someone new call Val at the Committed Partners for Youth program at 344-0833 or call CIP at 346-4351.

There is a screening process before students can participate.

17-year-old female shot at 13th and Pearl

A 17-year-old female Eugene resident who police said was working for a drug dealer was shot early Sunday morning near 13th Avenue and Pearl Street. The motive appears to be robbery, police said.

Shortly after the shooting, two Eugene police detectives arrested Justin Cooper Morris, 22, of Eugene. He was charged with first-degree robbery and first-degree assault and lodged at the Lane County Jail.

The female, who sustained a shoulder wound from the gunshot, was lodged at Skipworth Juvenile Detention Center for hindering prosecution and possession of LSD.

Homicide suspect arrested Saturday

Eugene Police Officer Jeff Drullinger arrested homicide suspect Phillip Bates Saturday evening on Highway 99N near Pattison Lane. Bates was wanted in connection with the shooting death of one woman and the gunshot wound to another that occurred Thursday night at an apartment complex in West Eugene.

Drullinger spotted Bates at 7:22 p.m. walking in the opposite direction down Highway 99N. He turned his car around and arrested Bates without incident. Bates was carrying a firearm at the time.
