Angelina Wolvert recorded two blocked shots and three steals against Wyoming and was awarded with the tournament's Most Valuable Player honor.

13:13 remaining.

"We were trying to run our offense all the way through," Wolvert said. "We haven't had a chance to do that because of steals or blocked shots. We played awesome defense tonight, and our offense came from that."

Wolvert's performance against Wyoming was a mirror image of her performance the day before against BYU. Wolvert played 30 minutes of the game, three minutes more than any other Duck, and was key in the Ducks' 74-56 win.

Wolvert converted six of 11 shots from the field, and with four seconds remaining in the first half, she extended the Ducks' lead to 38-31 on her lone three-point bucket.

Again, it was Wolvert's second-half play that helped Oregon clinch the win.

With 6:41 remaining, Wolvert stripped the ball from BYU's Stacy Jensen and quickly dumped the ball inside to Brianne Meharry, who converted the lay-in to extend the Ducks' lead to 62-47.

"I didn't expect to be named MVP," Wolvert said. "I just wanted to stick with the game plan and try to get more open shots."

Maybe Wolvert didn't expect it, but to the 3,443 fans at McArthur Court who watched her near perfect performance, it was no surprise.
