The Oregon Ducks celebrate their 41-13 Las Vegas Bowl victory over Air Force last season. It was their third bowl appearance in four years, but their first victory in that stretch. They go for two straight on Dec. 25.

For two weeks now Oregon fans have been lamenting, and Oregon State fans celebrating, the Beavers' overtime Civil War victory that seemed to damn the Ducks to a minor postseason bowl barring a major miracle.

As it turns out, Oregon's first loss in five games against the Beavers didn't matter.

With former-No. 2 UCLA having lost to Miami (Fla.) on Saturday, No. 21 Oregon will play the unranked Colorado Buffaloes at the Aloha Bowl in Honolulu on Dec. 25 at 12:30 p.m. The game will be the first in a doubleheader that also features Washington and No. 16 Air Force.
