Smith

Darius Wright and Smith hit consecutive threes during a two-minute stretch to push Oregon to a 55-50 edge with 8:25 remaining.

At 4:40, Smith banked home another layin to give the Ducks a 61-55 advantage.

But the Yellow Jackets — assuredly hardened by playing on the road at places such as Duke's Cameron Indoor Stadium in their native Atlantic Coast Conference — battled back again to claim a 64-63 lead on Alvin Jones' tipin with 1:38 left.

On Oregon's next possession, Smith received the ball on the perimeter, nodded his signature head fake and drove to the basket to draw Collier's fifth, disqualifying foul with 1:20 remaining.

Collier had managed just two points and three rebounds in the second half.

The free throws that awaited were perhaps the most pressure-packed of Smith's career.

"Those are the kinds of shots you think a long time about," said Smith, who shot 74 percent from the line during the regular season.

Smith stepped to the line, went through his normal free-throw routing and swished the first to tie the game at 64.

Then, Smith did precisely the same thing on the second free throw to boost the Ducks to a 65-64 lead they would never relinquish in cementing a ticket to the NIT's second round with a 67-64 victory.

Smith finished with a team-high 17 points on six-of-14 shooting, eight rebounds and two assists despite his slow start.

"I haven't felt this good since high school postseason wins,"

The 6,666 Oregon fans in attendance, the Ducks and — especially — A.D. Smith could not have asked for a better finish.
