knee on a barrier two weeks ago in the steeplechase, travels to Lewis & Clark College to compete at the Oregon Adidas Classic. Davis has already qualified for the NCAA meet, but he is looking to improve his time.

Perhaps the most storied event at the Oregon Twilight is the Bill McChesney Jr. Memorial Men's Mile. The race begins at 8 p.m. and is traditionally started by Bill McChesney Sr., the father of Bill Jr. and Tom McChesney, former Oregon runners who were killed in separate car accidents.

"I always look forward to it," Bill McChesney said. "It's kind of a bittersweet thing for me. But they get some real good runners. It's quite a tradition."

Fila's Adam Goucher leads the competition heading into the mile, but he faces two-time defending champion Ian Gillespie from New Balance Great Britain.

For most of the athletes on the Oregon team, Saturday serves as preparation for the Pac-10 meet, head coach Martin Smith said.

Great film scores, in all their passion and glory. Gershwin's melodic genius shines in An American in Paris. Bernstein's searing score for On the Waterfront, winner of 8 Academy Awards. And you can hear the ice crack in Prokofiev's huge score for orchestra and 130-voice chorus for the 1938 Russian classic Alexander Nevsky.
