October Author Events

Friday, October 1st
Blair Jackson
Garcia: An American Life
7:30 P.M.
100 Willamette Hall, UO

Dead Heads will rejoice in veteran rock journalist Blair Jackson's first comprehensive biography of cultural icon Jerry Garcia. Stitched together from more than a hundred of Jackson's interviews with Garcia, his friends, lovers, and band mates, Garcia: An American Life brings new insight into the phenomenon of the Grateful Dead and Garcia himself. Don't miss it!

Sunday, October 3rd
Gail Tsukiyama
The Language of Threads
12:00 P.M.
Knight Library Browsing Room

When Gail Tsukiyama wrote Women of the Silk, it became an instant best seller. She's followed it with her latest book, a sequel, The Language of Threads. She'll be with us to read from this exciting new book. Other works include Night of Many Dreams and one of our staff all-time favorites, Samurai's Garden. Come meet Gail.

Thursday, October 7th
Joe Kurmaskie
Metal Cowboy
7:30 P.M.
Knight Library Browsing Room

In his new book Metal Cowboy, Portland author Joe Kurmaskie writes as though Dave Barry, Ernie Pyle and Charles Kuralt all squeezed themselves onto a bicycle together to pedal across America! Cyclists and book lovers alike won't want to miss hearing about Joe's bicycling adventures.
