Species

strands that all happen simultaneously in time," Mason said, and that is called counterpoint.

First species counterpoint, as studied by Fux, is "two melodies with matching rhythms presented simultaneously 'note-against-note'" Mason explained. This counterpoint continues to the fifth species counterpoint, so that seventh species "is a music that goes beyond traditional music," Mason said.

"It's like putting together music that you can't even imagine," Mason added enthusiastically.

Even though their music is not available nationwide, some of the composers have recorded their music on Species' member Jack Gabel's label, North Pacific Music. Their CDs are available at stores like Borders, and at their concerts.

"Festival of the Millennium" runs through Nov. 22 and is a celebration for living 20th-century composers to perform their music in the last concert of this kind in this millennium.

Many local composers, including Seventh Species, will perform and are joined by renowned composer-in-residence George Crumb, who is a winner of the Pulitzer Prize and has been called one of America's greatest contemporary composers.

Ensembles from around the United States, such as Denver's Quattro Mani, Portland's Third Angle and Los Angeles' California E.A.R. Unit are also on the concert schedule. The world music ensembles are represented by the Mbira Masters of Zimbabwe, among others.

Seventh Species will perform on Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. at Beall Hall. Tickets are $7 general admission, and $4 for students. The Beall Hall box office opens one hour before each event.
