

Oregon tennis gives L.A. teams a scare

■ The women's tennis team performs admirably against tough competition

They were pushed to the brink of defeat. But in the end, the Los Angeles-area schools were too talented for the Oregon women's tennis team. The Ducks put forth their best efforts of the season but fell to UCLA and Southern California.

The Ducks were in a hole early as No. 8 UCLA's (3-2) top two players beat Oregon's Alina Wygonowska and Monika Gieczys in straight sets.

The Ducks earned their first point when the Bruins' Zana Zlebnick retired in her match against sophomore Adeline Arnaud. Oregon and UCLA continued to exchange blows, as sophomore Sarah Colistro dominated Jennifer Donahue 6-0, 6-0.

The pressure fell on sophomore Janice Nyland. The Duck lost a tough opening set to Elizabeth Schmidt, 5-7 but stormed back to take the second set, 6-4. With the entire Oregon squad rallying beside her, Nyland disposed of Schmidt, 6-1, and she tied the contest, 3-3.

Doubles matches were the Ducks' downfall, as UCLA won two of the three.

Oregon had to forget the 5-4 loss and focus on Saturday's opponent: No. 12 Southern California.

Four Ducks played three-set matches that came down to the final point. But the Women of Troy won three of the four to clinch the victory. Gieczys lost a heartbreaking three-set match to No. 4 Jewel Peterson. Colistro fell to No. 71 Anita Loyola. Valerie Young lost to Tiffany Brymer.

Senior Alina Wygonowska earned the Ducks' lone singles win. After losing the first set, Wygonowska won 6-1, 7-6(3).

Ducks come up short

■ Streaky Oregon jumps out to 3-0 lead, but the Wave takes the rest

After starting the contest with three wins, the Oregon men's tennis team was thinking upset against No. 8 Pepperdine in Malibu, Calif. Unfortunately, the Waves had other plans.

Senior Guillermo Carter and sophomore Thomas Schneider both put away their higher-ranked opponents in straight sets.

Freshman Oded Teig had to come from behind but came out on top in a three-set win over the Waves' Chase Exon, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

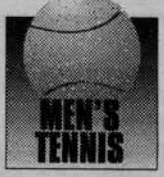

From then on, it was all Pepperdine. The Waves tied the contest with three wins in the remaining singles matches. Senior Joaquin Hamdan, junior David Becker and freshman Leslie Eisinga all lost to Pepperdine opponents.

The Waves clinched the match and ended upset hopes in doubles play. Pepperdine's third-ranked tandem of Sebastian Graeff and Anthony Ross put away Carter and Eisinga, 8-5. The Waves clinched the doubles portion when Robert Kendrick and John Hui defeated Teig and Schneider, 8-2.

"We were in a position to win the match," said Oregon head coach Chris Russell in a press release. "It was a heck of an effort."

The Ducks were scheduled to play UC Santa Barbara on Sunday. Results were unavailable.
