Men's title

No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament. If Arizona wins, and assuming both schools win Saturday, they would be co-champs.

"This is definitely a big week for us," Olson said. "The good news is that, despite last weekend, we have a chance to get a share of the title. It is nice to have the opportunity on our home court, but we have our work cut out for us. We are capable of getting it done."

Selection Sunday quickly approaching

In the latest ESPN Tournament projections, the Pac-10 was back to having four teams represented — thanks to the surging play of the Bruins, who have won four straight.

Stanford is pegged as the No. 1 seed in the West, while Arizona is predicted to be No. 2 in the Midwest. UCLA (8-8) roared back onto the charts as the No. 8 seed in the South.

And the Ducks moved up to No. 6 seed in the South and a first round pairing with Pepperdine on March 17 in Nashville, Tenn.

Should the Ducks win two games, its opponent could very possibly be the Tennessee Volunteers, coached by former Oregon coach Jerry Green.

ESPN.com will have two more updated projections posted today and Friday before CBS makes the official announcement at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.
