

Environment and community — two things I passionately believe in protecting and enhancing. I strive to impart to students a deeper understanding of the people, cultures, and ecosystems that co-exist in the work of the environmental design profession.

Responsibility and ethics — two qualities that are intrinsic in the work that design professionals undertake. I see in many of my students a desire to participate in the building of community, to improve the world in which we live, and to learn from each other and the accomplishments that together we are capable of achieving.

Celebration — should be about making contributions to our community, cherishing our friendships, and having fun.

I celebrate students who are building community, protecting the environment, and making responsible choices about alcohol.

*Stan Jones, MLA, MCP
Department of Landscape Architecture, UO*

Nuggets overrun Blazers

PORTLAND — While the Portland Trail Blazers couldn't have cared less about losing to Denver, the lowly Nuggets ended their season with jubilation.

Nick Van Exel sank a 21-foot jumper with 1.7 seconds left as the Nuggets completed a strong finish by defeating the Trail Blazers 96-95 Wednesday night.

"This is great," Van Exel said. "We're so young, and we realize our potential at times, when we play the top teams. If we want to get to the next level, we've got to beat those types of teams."

Van Exel scored 22 points and hit four 3-pointers, and Antonio McDyess added 22 points to lead the Nuggets, who won their fourth straight and eighth in 13 games after a 1-11 stretch.

Bonzi Wells scored nine of his 18 points in the final six minutes to lead the Blazers, but he missed a 23-foot jumper with five seconds left that set up Van Exel's winning shot.

"Let the playoffs begin," Brian Grant said, summing up the feelings of the Blazers, who have been locked into the No. 3 seed for some time and will face the Minnesota Timberwolves in the first round.

Game 1 is Sunday afternoon and Game 2 is Wednesday night, both at the Rose Garden. Game 3 will be Sunday, April 30, in the Target Center in Minneapolis.

The Associated Press

Calendar

Thursday, April 20

English lecture: Penny Fielding, University of Edinburgh, discusses "Jane Austen's Dirty Realism," a re-examination of Austen's writing through anthropological and psychoanalytic discourses of dirt and purity. 4:30 p.m. Room 332, Gilbert Hall. Free. For information, call 346-3911. Reception follows at 5:45 p.m. in 105 PLC.

Center for Asian and Pacific Studies/Asian Studies lecture: Author Anchee Min discusses "Living to Tell: Anchee Min on Mao and the Cultural Revolution." 7:30 p.m. Alumni Lounge, Gerlinger Hall. Free. For information, call 346-1521.

Pride Month: Queer Seder will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Hillel, 1059 Hilyard. Free. For information, browse darkwing.uoregon.edu/~program or call 346-1134.

The Banff Festival of Mountain Films will be held in 150 Columbia Hall at 8 p.m. This film festival celebrates the spirit of adventure and the mountain environment through a series of short films. It is sponsored by Eagle Creek Travel Gear, REI and the Outdoor Program. Tickets are $7 for University students and Outdoor Program Co-op members. General admission is $9. Tickets can be purchased at the EMU ticket office and REI

MOST UO students (80%) have 4 drinks or fewer when they party.

Data taken from 1998 UO Health Center Survey.

NEW VIEW
Office of Student Life