The Pacific-10 Conference is one of the toughest golf conferences in the country — but it's also got a touch of inconsistency.

At the second round of the wide-open Pac-10 women's golf championships at the Eugene Country Club Tuesday, every team except Stanford had a swing of at least five strokes from the first round. Most teams — including Oregon — improved their first round scores.

"Today we were much more comfortable," said Oregon head coach Renee Baumgartner.

Every Oregon player improved on her first-round outing except senior Anika Heuser, and the team finished fifth after 36 holes of play. The most dramatic improvements were by junior Jerilyn White and seniors Angie Rizzo and Kylie Wilson. All three players shot six strokes lower than their first round scores. White had the team's best score Tuesday, an even-par 72.

Heuser, despite shooting four strokes higher than Monday's round, still remains only a stroke behind tournament leaders Amanda Moltke-Leth of UCLA and Mikaela Parmlid of Southern California.

UO catchers lead the way with home runs

Catcher Kelly Planche led the charge for the Ducks in the first game of the day with a home run.

■ No. 18 Oregon uses the long ball to crush Portland State in a double header

By Matt O'Neill
Oregon Daily Emerald

Missy Coe crushed the softball a good 240 feet, all the way into the parking lot of the Outdoor Program's garage.

In fact, the fences seemed very close for both of the No. 18 Oregon softball team's catchers Tuesday afternoon. Coe, a sophomore, and Kelly Planche, a junior, hit big home runs to lead the Ducks to a pair of wins.

Most of the balls hit by the home team were at least to the warning track as the offense clicked on all cylinders.

The Ducks (32-18 overall, 4-6 Pacific-10 Conference) swept Portland State (20-30) for the second time this year, using the eight-run rule in the first game (8-0), and riding the Coe bomb in the second to a 3-2 win.

In that second game Coe's blast came in the bottom of the fifth inning with the Ducks already ahead 1-0, proving to be

“It was a pretty fat pitch, and I was looking for something inside and turned on it.”
