NCAA

under Baumgartner for four years.

The lone team member who won't be mourning the end of her season is junior Jerilyn White. The Salem native is the team's stroke average leader and is ranked 80th in the nation individually. White has paced the Ducks at both postseason tournaments they have played in.

Top competition

The favorite at the NCAA Championships will be a toss-up between No. 1 Arizona and No. 2 Duke. Both teams are red-hot going into the championships.

Arizona has won seven tournaments in a row, stretching back to October. Duke has won five tournaments in a row, and eight this season. Both won their respective conference championships and regional tournaments.

Individual battle

The individual race will be close as well. Top-ranked Jenna Daniels of Arizona struggled at the regionals and finished 15th overall, her worst finish of the season by seven places. Other Pac-10 competitors will take advantage if Daniels struggles again.

Arizona State freshman standout, second-ranked Miriam Nagl, who won the west regionals, should compete for the individual title, as will No. 4 Beth Bauer of Duke.

The NCAA Championships will be played May 24-27 in Sunriver.
