Blazers

staring at referee Ron Garretson, said he had no special motivation Monday night.

"I'm just going out there and playing, man," Wallace said.

Wallace had 11 points and five rebounds in the third quarter, when the Blazers outscored Los Angeles 28-8, tying the Lakers' playoff low for that quarter and just two short of the NBA record-low set by Atlanta against Boston on May 6, 1986.

"The first half was just awful, and we were only down by three points," Lakers coach Phil Jackson said. "We certainly could play a better second half was my message to the team at halftime, and we went out and played worse."

Pippen had 21 points and 11 rebounds for Portland. He scored 17 points in the first half as the Blazers took a tenuous 48-45 lead. Steve Smith scored 24 for the Blazers.

The Lakers made just two of 15 shots in the third quarter and were outrebounded 14-5, even though O'Neal played the entire 12 minutes.

Smith's inside basket started the run and Wallace's third 3-pointer ended it, putting the Blazers ahead 76-51 with 8.5 seconds left in the quarter.

"They pressed the ball and drove to the hoop and put us in foul situations," Jackson said. "They had us back on our heels."

Dunleavy drew a technical foul with 6:48 left in the third quarter when Arvydas Sabonis was called for his fourth foul in a collision with O'Neal under the Lakers' basket. Portland outscored Los Angeles 22-6 the rest of the quarter.

Bryant's two free throws with 1.3 seconds allowed the Lakers to avoid tying the NBA playoff record for lowest-scoring third quarter and made it 76-53 going into the fourth.

After failing to get one free-throw attempt in the first half of Game 1, Portland was 18-for-25 at the line in the first half of Game 2, compared with the Lakers' 7-for-11. Pippen was 7-for-10 at the line.

O'Neal, in foul trouble and frustrated by the Blazers' double-team, scored just six points in the first half and had nine through three quarters. He drew his third foul on Bonzi Wells' three-point play with 6:27 to play in the second quarter and sat out the final 5:16 of the half.

Sabonis, outscored 41-0 by O'Neal in Game 1, had five points this time before fouling out.
