

Fall Creek

change during a hike that is just more than 11 miles round trip.

Compared to, say, Spencer Butte or the Ridgeline Trail in town, Fall Creek is by far less traveled and offers trail users a wilder experience — although the challenge of the Ridgeline Trail is comparable to Fall Creek.

While the elevation gain of Fall Creek is not stunning, at least on the shorter trails, views of the river's occasional white-waters, the forest's incredible lushness and the sounds of its ecosystem make it a trip worthwhile.

Finally, Fall Creek lacks the pest of poison oak and stinging nettles found at Spencer Butte and the Ridgeline Trail — an added bonus for Fall Creek trail users.

Here's a different flavor of Afro-Cuban fusion: Vocalese. Two choirs, half a world apart, sing music of their country and heritage. You may not always understand the words. But with their passion, joy, and communication, you'll get the message.

Join us and live the freedom of world music.

Go beyond boundaries.

ENTREVOCES OF CUBA CHRIST THE KING CHOIR OF UGANDA
TUESDAY, JUNE 27, 8 PM • HULT CENTER

Sponsored by Eugene Weekly

The International Voices project is made possible in part by grants from the Association of Performing Arts Presenters Arts Partners Program, which is underwritten by the Wallace-Reader's Digest Funds and Doris Duke Charitable Foundation, and the Hult Endowment of the Arts Foundation of Western Oregon.

Opening a rare window into the musical soul of Cuba, the singers of Entre Voces will perform contemporary work by Cuban and Latin American composers, a little Monteverdi, a few spirituals, and a lot of tropical, breezy sounds!

Out of the heart of East Africa comes Christ the King Church Choir, until recently one of Uganda's hidden treasures. Using percussion, dancing, and expert choral singing, the group's 40 voices weave a fabric of daily and spiritual life in East Africa.
