weekend, scoring 19 against Wisconsin and 22 against North Carolina State.

The duo of forward Alyssa Fredrick and guard Alissa Edwards have also been key contributors off Oregon's bench. Fredrick grabbed a team-high 13 rebounds against the Badgers and N.C. State combined, while Edwards played a career-high 34 minutes against Wisconsin and was solid on defense.

"I'm trying to keep improving, if anything," Fredrick said. "It's still early in the season, and I want to get better before the Pac-10s."

Oregon players decided to practice Tuesday instead of taking the day off, which Runge said is "very exciting as a coach."

"Obviously, they're very tired today," Runge said. "But they still wanted to practice and work on things we weren't executing as well as we would have liked to in the tournament."

statement of where we are at as a team," Kearney said. "It's just an indicator of what we're capable of."

Stanford attended last week's Southern Oregon Open, but only four Ducks and Cardinal tangled. Overstake, freshman Bransen Phillips, sophomore Jason Harless and Watson all decided their opponents in the first three rounds of the tournament.

Stanford is led by Brad Metzler at 133 pounds. The sophomore was the Cardinal's only placer at Southern Oregon.

"We're pleased with how they've progressed," Kearney said. "You're always looking for areas to improve in."

Basketball

Sparked by Arthur Ireland's dunk and three-pointer, the Pioneers cut the lead to 63-60 with 10:52 remaining. And then, a Wahab Carter bucket knotted it all up at 63 for the game's first tie.

"I don't know if it was the air or what, but coach is going to get on us for that," Norwood said about the defensive lap 1:32 mark of the half. Even worse for the Ducks, center Julius Hicks — who had seven points and nine rebounds — fouled out.

But two of the veterans sealed the deal when Norwood dished it to Bracey, who slammed home the bucket while getting fouled. The three-point play extended the lead to seven and helped deliver the Ducks a hard-fought victory on the road.

"We knew this was going to be a tough game," Kent said. "There was a lot of bad blood and emotion, but we did a nice job. It was a great test for us and forced us to grow some."

The Ducks will take a little breather this week to enjoy the holiday before hosting Portland State Saturday night at McArthur Court.

"We'll relax a little bit and have a wonderful Thanksgiving and get right back together as a team," Kent said. "We're trying to find ourselves and it's kind of like, 'Where's Waldo?' right now, and we think we've got him on the horizon where we can see him. And we're going to get there."
