

There is a great way to get real experience in advertising right here on campus!

Work for the ODE.

We're hiring creative, enthusiastic students to be sales representatives and ad designers starting fall 2001.

Build skills, your resumé and add to your portfolio.
See if we've got the job for you...

Come to our JOB FAIR:

TODAY

10am-4pm Suite 300 EMU

Call 346-5511 for more info

Oregon Daily Emerald

Tennis

continued from page 15

Fellow sophomore Jason Menke had a breakthrough season after being thrust into a leadership role. The Beaverton native out of Westview High finished the season 13-19, more than doubling his win total as a freshman.

Oregon's lone senior, David Becker, had a similar season, finishing 13-20 in his last campaign. In his career, Becker played on two NCAA Tournament teams and compiled a 29-50 record.

After a promising start for the Ducks, in which they were 8-6 at the midway point of the season, Oregon collapsed. The Ducks left the friendly confines of their new Student Tennis Center and hit the road for the rest of the season. Oregon's youth showed as they lost their final seven matches and dropped out of the national rankings.

"When we hit the road we didn't play at the level we did at home," Russell said. "With a young team, it was more glaring than in the past. We had lots of individuals play well at the end of the season but just couldn't pull it together."

There was some consolation that all but one of Oregon's losses came against ranked opponents. The brightest point in the season came in mid-February, when the Ducks

“In a way, it's tough. But it could be the best thing that happens to the. I see a real good nucleus of guys who have gotten better over the season.”

Chris Russell
Men's Tennis Coach

disposed of visiting New Mexico State and Pacific by scores of 5-2.

Next season looks bright for Oregon as they lose only Becker, and Russell plans to bring a new batch of talented recruits.

"In a way, it's tough," Russell said. "But it could be the best thing that happens to [them]. I see a real good nucleus of guys who have gotten better over the season. The future looks good."

Women's Track

continued from page 15

been used for three years.

"It's going to mean more to me to break the old record," Malone said.

Malone, currently third on the national list, will continue her assault on the rankings this weekend at the Steve Scott.

Vaultin' in Style

The only Oregon squad with two NCAA-qualified athletes and four qualified for the Pac-10 meet is the pole vaulting crew. The top vaulter is all-American Niki Reed, but also making some noise are Holly Speight, Kirsten Riley and Georgette Moyle. Reed is eighth nationally, while Speight ranks 45th.

Riley and Moyle stole a piece of the limelight from Reed and Speight last weekend when both cleared personal-best heights of 12-1 1/2. Those marks qualified the two athletes for the Pac-10 Championships.

"I'm really excited that we're both jumping high," Moyle said of herself and Riley. "Kirsten definitely pushes me."

Riley said that the talent at the top of the team helps them. Besides Reed and Speight, former All-American Karina Elstrom, who is currently recovering from a back injury, is slowly getting back to top form.

"Having so much talent to look up to motivates me to work as hard as I can," Riley said.

Both Riley and Moyle said that the squad is loose and fun, and that helps them both in practice and at meets.

"We don't really talk about marks we need to hit," Riley said. "Mostly we just focus on technique and having fun with it."

"We have a really good time," Moyle said. "It's motivation to work hard when you have a group of friends to work out with."

All the vaulters, from No. 1 through No. 5, have ultimate confidence in the team.

"I think we all have the potential [to make the NCAAs]," Moyle said.

Reed, Speight and Riley will compete at the Steve Scott this weekend, while all the vaulters could make the Pac-10 meet May 19-20.

FISHER GRADUATE SCHOOL OF INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

MONTEREY INSTITUTE
OF INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

MONTEREY • CA

International MBA

- Two year and one year MBA programs
- Learn diverse national business practices
- Develop company-sponsored international business plans
- Enhance language and cross-cultural skills
- Experience personalized education and applied research in an international setting

SCHOLARSHIPS STILL AVAILABLE

Tel: 831-647-6586 • Fax: 831-647-6506
www.miiis.edu • fgsib_tm@miiis.edu