Each bus is about 22 feet long and can hold up to 33 people, Vobora said.

Fred Tepfer, a planning associate with the Office of University Planning, said there are both pluses and minuses with the campus shuttle.

"Hey, from a safety point of view, it's a dream," he said, adding that students could get a bus ride to the mall or downtown straight from their residence hall.

But he said many people on campus "feel pretty protective of [13th Avenue] as a pedestrian area," so there may be some concerns about bringing additional vehicular traf-

Rand Stamm, the parking and transportation manager for the Department of Public Safety, said the shuttle bus could provide a safe alternative for many people on campus.

"Definitely — that would enhance public safety," he said.

Stamm said the shuttle bus fits into the campus well because it provides a safety resource in a way that is not that detrimental to the surrounding area.

"Both environmentally and socially, it's a good idea," he said. "It gets people out of the 'one person, one car' mindset."
