

Club soccer team kicks Oregon State again

■ The Club Sports women's soccer team finished the season with a 2-0 victory over Oregon State, Oregon's fourth win of the season against the Beavers

For the Oregon Club Sports women's soccer team, the season ended the way it had wanted and expected — with another 'W.' Oregon played its final game of the season against Oregon State Saturday on the turf field. Oregon was generously greeted by the weather and its fans for its final match as it gave the Beavers no mercy en route to a 2-0 victory.

"As I like to say, 'We schooled them in the art of soccer,'" head coach Barbie Bowling said. "We were pleased that we won, but it was not our best game against Oregon State."

Throughout the year, Oregon has had no trouble winning the rivalry between the two teams. Of their six meetings, Oregon won four, tied once and had a close loss.

"OSU is always a physically intense game," Bowling said. "We just had more heart than the other team."

The Oregon women were very pleased as they ended the season with a 9-1-0 record. They were able to greatly improve from their fall season, when they described themselves as 'out of shape.'

Oregon was confident that it could beat the Beavers as long as it could beat them to the ball and play with heart.

Sophomore Cristin Vanderpol and senior Lisa Ryan both stepped up, scoring a goal apiece. Ryan also earned the assist off Vanderpol's goal-scoring header.

Oregon will lose seven seniors to graduation this year. Although the season is officially over, as soon as finals are done, many of the women will be joining city-league teams so they can still compete and play together.

Bowling plans to come back to coach and play again next year, but with the loss of many seniors, the season will be unpredictable.

The Oregon women have no worries, though, as they remain optimistic after this year's success. And after the beating the Beavers took from them this year, they may be a little reluctant to see Oregon anytime soon.

EARLY DRIVE THRU NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

Long before early conservationists formed living chains around the giant redwoods or McDonald's offered drive thru convenience, early Redwood promoters bored car-sized holes into a select few of the towering sentinels. Eager tourists coughed up their hard earned cash for the privilege of making the 20-foot journey from one side to the other. In Geography, we call this the "human-made environment." The globe's packed with fascinating geographic sights. Why not take a class and see for yourself.

Harrington

Wojciechowski, sat down with Harrington during his visit and had kinder words to say about the West Coast quarterback.

"Harrington is legit. He is smart, poised, has good feet and an accurate arm," Feldman wrote. "He also leads one of the top teams in the country, not just on the Left Coast. I got the impression this wasn't a guy who had an inflated sense of himself (mural notwithstanding)."

The billboard was erected, ultimately, to announce Harrington as a legitimate contender for the Heisman Trophy. If he won the award, Harrington would become the first Duck to ever achieve that feat.

But there are still some football games to win, and Harrington said he is well aware of that fact. The senior has a 14-2 record as a starter in green and yellow, and this season he must face the two teams that have already beaten him.

"I realize that all this attention doesn't mean anything unless we perform," Harrington said. "Our main goal has always been in perspective and everyone is very focused. Nothing is going to take away my focus."

The Ducks will now focus on the season opener against Wisconsin, one of two teams Oregon lost to last season, on Sept. 1 at Autzen Stadium.

Feeley signs with Eagles, has appendix out

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Eagles have signed former Oregon standout A.J. Feeley to a three-year contract. The team made the announcement Wednesday, as the rookie quarterback recuperated from an emergency appendectomy.

Feeley was in good condition following the surgery at the Pennsylvania Hospital.

The Eagles said he will be listed as doubtful for minicamp starting Tuesday but is expected to be fully recovered for the start of training camp in July.

In 22 games at Oregon, the 6-foot-3, 217-pound Feeley completed 149 of 282 passes for 2,175 yards, 15 touchdowns and only six interceptions.

The 24-year-old was the second of the Eagles' two fifth-round draft choices in April. He is the third of six draft choices to sign with the Eagles, joining tight end Tony Stewart and running back Correll Buckhalter.

Stern quiets conspiracy talk

LOS ANGELES — NBA Commissioner David Stern conceded

Wednesday that the league has not done enough to quiet all the talk of playoff conspiracy theories.

"Maybe I'm the one that's guilty of letting it go too long," Stern said at his annual NBA Finals news conference.

The league fined the Milwaukee Bucks coach George Karl and guard Ray Allen for their comments during the Eastern Conference finals alleging that the NBA office would rather see a Philadelphia-Los Angeles finals than a Bucks-Lakers series.

In past years, the league tended to be dismissive of players or coaches who made similar conspiratorial comments.

"Everybody in the league knows that that's what happens during the tense times of the playoffs. People lose their objectivity, and in the throes of the heat of battle they say things," Stern said.

"Frankly, given the amount of coverage that we get and the amount that people begin to take those issues seriously, I think we have to step up and be more vigilant," he said. "What these fines were grounded on was the notion that you can't just impugn the integrity of the league by alleging that the league is engaging in criminal activity. It just doesn't go down that well, and it won't be tolerated."

On another matter, Stern said he expected the Vancouver Grizzlies' move to Memphis to be approved by the league's relocation committee if the Shelby County (Tenn.) Commission approves the issuance of $12 million in construction bonds next week.

Gonzalez strains groin

Gonzalez was replaced by Jolbert Cabrera in the bottom of the sixth inning with the game tied at 2.

Gonzalez, 5 for 9 with two home runs and three RBIs in the series, was 0 for 3 Wednesday before leaving the game. Cleveland said he was day to day.

Gonzalez, in his first season with Cleveland, entered Wednesday fourth in the AL in batting average (.360), fourth in runs scored (44), tied for fifth in home runs (15) and third in RBIs (53).
