PROMO PHOTO OF THE WEEK

The Emerald entertainment desk gets an avalanche of promotional photos for bands, movies and various "acts" during any given week. This special column takes a moment to present the most bizarre image received.

What's wrong with this shot from the upcoming movie "Bubble Boy"? Simple: no sign of Fabio. Not only does the hunk-a-hunk of burning love have a speaking part in this film, he actually plays a character instead of just playing Fabio. He plays Gil The Savior, a religious guru clad in an all-white suit who extends his arms a lot in a welcoming gesture.

But the studio decided we'd rather see these characters getting ready for a night on the town. Sheesh.

Bubble Boy opens on Friday. For more Fabio-oriented news and an amazing Javascript morphing photo gallery, check out his international fan Web site at fabiofc.com.

Pearl Jam, R.E.M., The Wallflowers, the sisters Heart, Alanis Morissette and the Dave Matthews Band performs for Groundwork 2001, a benefit concert to combat hunger. Although Madonna is the honorary chair for the group's Advisory Committee, she is not making a tour detour to perform.

Suffice to say, this fall again fails to let down the concert enthusiast looking to make the most of the summer nights before the rains come calling again.

From the news side of things, a scant week ago Mr. Lang dubbed this summer "The Summer of Rehab." It appears summer isn't over yet. Reports are coming out of the U.K. that Foo Fighters drummer Taylor Hawkins has been hospitalized for "an overindulgence." The incident has forced the once-cool band to cancel some European dates.

The national and independent rock communities will bow down to Sir Paul McCartney in the form of tribute CDs due in stores Oct. 9 and Oct. 23. Each CD will chronicle McCartney's volumes of work as a solo artist, with Owsley doing "Band on the Run," They Might Be Giants performing "Ram On" and Virgos crooning "Maybe I'm Amazed." Gadget White Band will do "Maybe I'm Amazed" for the indie compilation, with Jellybricks adding "Take It Away."

Jeremy Lang is an associate editor at the Emerald and is disappointed that he will have to wear slacks at his new job. He can be reached at jiang@dailyemerald.com.
