night sky. Lipstein said it is important to be able to see three stars because Jewish holidays officially begin at sundown, when three stars are visible in the sky.

To celebrate Sukkot, all Hillel events this week, including a dinner on Tuesday night, were held in the sukkah. Weekend services will also be held in the sukkah. Senior Stacey Schwartz is the Tzedek Hillel chairwoman, a position relating to community service and social action. She said building the sukkah was a good way for students to come together. "It's cool to have everyone working together and building this," she said.

News briefs

Peace march to be held on Sunday

Following the lead of people in New York who have been planning anti-war activities since Sept. 11, students and community members are taking a local approach as part of a national day of action for peace.

They will participate in a march and rally on Sunday, Oct. 7, supported by the National Coalition for Peace and Justice at the EMU Amphitheater from 2 to 4 p.m.

Randy Newnham, from the University's Survival Center, said he hopes the event will create dialogue and discourage "scapegoating of people in the community."

"Rallies are nice, but they're not effective in creating social change," he said. "People need to get their feet wet and get engaged in politics on a personal level. Society doesn't change until we change as individuals."

The event is being organized by the Survival Center and the Justice Not War Coalition. Local performing artists at the event will include The Sugar Beets, Jordan Blumberg-Enge and the Urgent Carnival, a local street theater and musical group.

Oregonians to travel to New York

To affirm the economic link between Oregon and New York, encourage travel and stimulate New York's economy, Oregon residents will be taking a trip across the country.

Sen. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., honored the organizers and participants in the upcoming "Flight for Freedom" on the U.S. Senate floor Thursday.

"In a show of solidarity with their fellow Americans, more than 700 Oregonians are making a statement to the nation this weekend by heading to the hotels, Broadway shows and restaurants in New York City that are fighting for economic survival in the aftermath of the attacks," Wyden said in a statement.

Oregon business and civic leaders will be joined on their trip to New York City by State Treasurer

Randall Edwards.

"This is a great opportunity for Oregonians to make a personal connection with the people of New York and show our support for those suffering the most from this terrible tragedy," Edwards said in a statement.

Firestone ordered to recall 3.5 million more tires

(KRT) The federal government has ordered Bridgestone/Firestone Inc. to recall 3.5 million tires, which ends another chapter in the often combustible partnership of Ford Motor Co. and the tire maker.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which ordered the recall Thursday, also said it had discovered 68 more fatalities connected to Firestone tire failures, raising the total to 271.

Twenty-five of those deaths and about 50 of the more than 800 injuries involve the newly recalled tires. Most of the accidents reported to NHTSA involved the rollover of the Ford Explorer equipped with Firestone tires.

Ford and Firestone have been playing the blame game for over a year. Ford says Firestone tires are defective and unsafe, while Firestone says the world's best-selling sport utility vehicle has a tendency to roll over because of an alleged steering defect.

The recall involves Wilderness AT tires that were mounted on sport-utility vehicles before May 1998 and that were supplied to Ford as original equipment or sold as replacement tires.

The U.S. unit of Bridgestone Corp. in Japan estimates its replacement program will cost about $30 million and will be completed by Jan. 31.

Thursday's announcement ends the government's investigation into the safety of Firestone tires and the Ford Explorer. The government report said claims and complaint data indicated that tread separation on the Explorer is "no more likely to lead to a crash than on other SUVs."
