prove upon before Pacific-10 Conference play begins in December.

"We need to step up our intensity a little bit," Kent said. "We just need to fine tune our whole system."

The coach and the players said that the Ducks will be especially looking to cut down on turnovers, after they committed a combined 46 in the exhibition games.

"I think we're trying to do too much with the ball," Kent said. "We need to pass the ball more, instead of hanging on to it."

On offense, Jones is on the cusp of moving up in the Oregon record books, and could achieve several milestones this weekend. Jones needs six points to reach 1,000 for his career, 29 points to move into 19th-place all-time at Oregon, seven blocks to move into fourth all-time and eight three-pointers to move into sixth all-time.

Jones will have a shot to achieve all those marks only because the Ducks will play three games this weekend.

Ducks sign three top recruits

Oregon ensured its future will be in good hands Wednesday with the signing of two high school athletes and one junior college transfer.

Brandon Lincoln, a 6-foot-4 guard from Portland's Jefferson High who is ranked by ESPN.com as one of the top 100 prep seniors, and Kent's son, Jordan, a 6-foot-4 guard from Churchill High, are the two prep signees.

The JC addition is 6-foot-3 guard Andre Joseph, out of Lee Junior College in Texas, where he averaged 15.8 points per game.

"This is a versatile group that can fill a lot of needs," Kent said.

job midway through his sophomore year. Now, as a fifth-year senior who will earn a degree in sports marketing at the end of the term, Harrington has learned to take things in stride.

"His work ethic is unmatched by anyone else on the team," Peelle said. "Off the field, he's just relaxed. When he got here, he was so uptight and so tense. He's just really relaxed now and has embraced college and is enjoying the life."

Harrington will likely be enjoying life in the National Football League in the years to come. Many have projected that he may be a top-10 first-round selection in next year's draft.

"He's just a total team player," Oregon offensive coordinator Jeff Tedford said. "He's definitely good enough to take it to the next level."

Just hope, for Joey's sake, his future teammates don't get wind of the nickname "Princess."
