something to prove. He'll be very excited to erase last season's memories."

Good news for the Ducks is that the home team has won the last four meetings between the teams.

"It's the Civil War, it's our biggest game of the year, and after last year, we have to take care of business," Oregon senior tight end Justin Peelle said. "This is my last game here, so it would be incomplete without (a win)."

Asked to describe the significance of the Civil War to someone unfamiliar with the annual rivalry, Harrington said the state has no other loyalties.

"In L.A., you have a lot of things going on. You have the Lakers, the Clippers, pro baseball — you have so much going on," Harrington said. "In Washington, you have the Sonics and the Seahawks, and so much other stuff. In Oregon, you have the Beavers and the Ducks. And come November, there's no switching sides — you're either one side or the other."

"Families get divided, friends get divided, and I don't want to say it's a vicious thing, but it really gets your blood going," he said.

After a slow start this season, Oregon State senior quarterback Jonathan Smith has come on strong in recent weeks, including a 317-yard, two-touchdown performance in a 49-24 win over Washington on Nov. 10.

Another focus of the game will be on the running game, with three featured tailbacks vying to reach the 1,000-yard mark. With 113 yards Saturday, Oregon State senior Ken Simonton could become just the fifth running back in NCAA history to rush for 1,000 yards in all four years.

"Families get divided, friends get divided, and I don't want to say it's a vicious thing, but it really gets your blood going."

Coincidentally, Simonton rushed for 113 yards and one touchdown in last year's Civil War.

"Winning the Civil War will last a lot longer in Ken Simonton's mind than reaching that record," Erickson said.

Oregon's Maurice Morris and Onterio Smith could become just the second tag team in Pac-10 history to each rush for 1,000 yards. Smith has rushed for 977 yards in 10 games this season, while Morris has 858 yards in nine games.
