rights activism.

"Redefining the Dream' is a chance to explore more than his nonviolent movement and look at other aspects of his life," he said.

Woldu said King's influence among social movements extends beyond the African American community.

"King influenced all people and all races," she said. "Women's rights and gay rights both sprung from his influence."

Events scheduled this month include a panel discussion, "What would MLK Say?," in which faculty members will discuss King's impact on social movements in relation to the current global situation. The panel will be held at 6 p.m. Jan. 15 in the International Student Lounge.

On Jan. 23, an awards ceremony honoring staff, faculty and administrators will be held at 11:30 a.m. in Gerlinger Lounge. Also on Jan. 23, the Black Student Association will host an open mic and candlelight vigil, which will begin with a reception in the EMU Amphitheater at 7 p.m.

Celebration events conclude Jan. 25 with a dinner and dance sponsored by the Vietnamese Student Association and the BSU at 6 p.m. in the Collier House.
