Jones' first name as "Freddy" and spelled out McArthur Court as "MacArthur."

"He still don't know us yet, so we got to prove some more," Jones said.

"I don't know about him, we'll see," Lever said of Vitale. "Once he gets it all straight, we'll be happy with him."

Norwood who?

In head coach Ernie Kent's postgame press conference following Oregon's win over USC on Saturday, he again referred to senior guard Anthony Lever as "Anthony Norwood," which he has done throughout the season.

"It's never going to change," Lever said, laughing. "The day where he can consistently say 'Lever,' I'll be happy, but it doesn't matter anymore. The funny thing now is that everybody else on the team nudges me every time he says it."

Lever legally changed his name over the summer in honor of his father, former NBA player Lafayette

"Fat" Lever.

Sometimes, Lever will be on the bench during a game and hear Kent yell for "Norwood" to get in there.

"I can't just sit there, I have to get in the game," Lever said.

So, coach, what's his last name?

"Lever," Kent said with a smile.

"But hey, all the guys do the same thing too when they call him 'Wood.' I have to catch myself though."

Bracketology

The calendar has flipped to February, leaving March Madness looming in the distance. In this week's ESPN.com "Bracketology," where the NCAA Tournament field is projected, the Ducks are a fifth-seed and have a first round match-up with 12th-seeded Tulsa.

Oregon's predicted to play on March 14 at Arco Arena in Sacramento, Calif. The 476 miles of travel distance for the Ducks would sure beat the 2,761 miles they flew to Buffalo, N.Y., for their one-and-done tourney experience in March 2000.

today. Dennis verbally committed to USC, but several reports have him mulling over Oregon, Washington and UCLA.

Dennis was named The Los Angeles Times' Southern California player of the year after rushing for 1,740 yards and 24 touchdowns last season.

"Hershel is the kind of back that gets stronger every quarter," Poly

Tech head coach Raul Lara told the Times. "He creates and makes people miss, so when he's supposed to get a loss, he gets a gain because of the gifts he has."

Last season, the Ducks signed 23 recruits, including five junior college transfers.

Bellotti has scheduled a press conference this afternoon to announce this year's signings.

Senate Ad Hoc Committee on Campus Responses to Aftermath of September 11 Events

Department of Geography

presents

September 11th and the Changing Geopolitical Context

with Alexander Murphy and Shaul Cohen

Wednesday, February 6 4:00-5:30

100 Willamette Hall

In an effort to facilitate education and informed discussion—from a variety of perspectives—on the events of September 11th and their aftermath, the University of Oregon Senate Ad-Hoc Committee charged with coordinating the university's response is sponsoring a series of panel presentations and discussions during Winter term 2002.

Symposia will meet weekly, on Wednesdays from 4:00 to 5:30 P.M., in 100 Willamette Hall. Each week will feature presentations and discussions that draw on the particular perspectives, specializations and expertise of University of Oregon schools, departments and programs, as well as individual faculty engaged in teaching and research on topics that inform our understanding of the September 11th crisis and subsequent developments.

The University Senate Ad-Hoc Committee does not take positions on issues of policy, politics, or ideology. To ensure its neutrality, the Committee will provide clear identification of the specific sponsorship of campus activities by the groups that carry them out. In all cases, the content of remarks and materials relating to these issues are the responsibility of their sponsors, and do not reflect an official position of the Ad-Hoc Committee or the University of Oregon.

All meetings are free of charge and open to the public.
