the Ducks, historically leading the series 72-22-2, but if the Dec. 12 meeting between the two schools is any indication of how the latest edition of the Civil War will transpire, fans at Mac Court will be on the edges of their seats.

"I hope it's not going to be as exciting for the fans this time as it was last time," Oregon State head coach Joe Wells said. "You want to get on a roll this week. It's a great chance for guys to improve their position for the Pac-10 meet and to get things going or keep things going."

In the latest rankings, Oregon State has five wrestlers in the top-25 while Oregon has four. In the heavyweight class, Oregon's No. 19 Eric Webb will compete against No. 7 Jason Cooley. Webb picked up three victories last weekend despite lingering pain in his right big toe, which caused him to miss dual meets on Jan. 25.

"Eric Webb is knocking some of the rust off from being laid-up for basically the last five weeks," Oregon head coach Chuck Kearney said before the weekend meets.

The 141-pound weight class also will feature two ranked opponents facing each other — Oregon's No. 20 Brian Watson against the Beavers' No. 11 Casey Horn. Horn defeated Watson 6-4 in the last dual meet.

Oregon's 174-pounder Shane

Webster (12-7) has been wrestling well lately and is coming off a tough loss to Cal Poly's No. 13 Steve Strange. Against the Beavers, Webster will face No. 12 Nathan Coy (11-5). In their previous meeting, Coy defeated Webster 10-1 in a decision that included the two near fall points that awarded Oregon State the criteria "g" victory.

"I hope it's not going to be as exciting for the fans this time as it was last time. You want to get on a roll this week. It's a great chance for guys to improve their position for the Pac-10 meet and to get things going or keep things going."

In the 165-pound class, No. 5 Eugene Harris (25-3) will face Jed Pennell (15-9), who has won eight of his last 11 matches. In their last meeting, Harris won by major decision, 20-7. Scoring a team-high 85 points, Harris has eight major decisions and two pins.

September 11th and its Aftermath in the News

Reporting on the Reporting

Wednesday, February 13 4:00-5:30

100 Willamette Hall

In an effort to facilitate education and informed discussion—from a variety of perspectives—on the events of September 11th and their aftermath, the University of Oregon Senate Ad-Hoc Committee charged with coordinating the university's response is sponsoring a series of panel presentations and discussions during Winter term 2002.

Symposia will meet weekly, on Wednesdays from 4:00 to 5:30 P.M., in 100 Willamette Hall. Each week will feature presentations and discussions that draw on the particular perspectives, specializations and expertise of University of Oregon schools, departments and programs, as well as individual faculty engaged in teaching and research on topics that inform our understanding of the September 11th crisis and subsequent developments.

The University Senate Ad-Hoc Committee does not take positions on issues of policy, politics, or ideology. To ensure its neutrality, the Committee will provide clear identification of the specific sponsorship of campus activities by the groups that carry them out. In all cases, the content of remarks and materials relating to these issues are the responsibility of their sponsors, and do not reflect an official position of the Ad-Hoc Committee or the University of Oregon.

All meetings are free of charge and open to the public.

To contact the Senate Ad Hoc Committee, e-mail
