■ The Oregon Club Sports women's lacrosse team splits road trip in Washington

The Oregon Club Sports women's lacrosse team capped off a four-game road trip Sunday with a 12-0 win over Pacific Lutheran in Tacoma.

Tina Thompson, Kate Regalbuto and Emily Bowersox each scored three goals against PLU, while Louisa Drosch and Nicole Nishmura split time in the net to preserve the shutout for the Ducks.

Oregon won its first game Sunday 6-2 against Blackfin. Thompson, Regalbuto and Nishmura led the way for the Ducks, scoring two goals apiece.

The Ducks' defensive stance was led by Marissa White, Kate Cody and Tara McGann.

"The weekend really showed how well the team has come together," said Dorsch, the team coordinator.

"Our defense has been doing an amazing job." On Saturday in Bellingham, Wash., the Ducks fell to Western Washington, 6-3, and Washington, 6-2. Thompson was Oregon's top scorer for the day, combining for two goals in the two games.

Dorsch combined for 16 saves in the two losses.

"We are looking forward to a rematch with UW in the next few weeks, so that they can see what we can really do on the field," Dorsch said.

UO baseball roughed up by Central

After a two-week break from practices, the Oregon Club Sports baseball team dropped three games to Central Oregon Community College over the weekend at Civic Stadium.

"We were clearly the better team, but we don't actually get on a baseball field very often," team coordinator Micah Bodner said of the team's lack of practice facilities. "We haven't practiced in two weeks, so I wasn't too surprised we looked rusty."

Central starting pitcher Carson O'Neil pitched six solid innings — allowing just one hit to Oregon's Matt Mensik — as the Bobcats jumped out to a big lead heading into the seventh. But the Ducks (2-6 overall) got to O'Neil in the bottom of the seventh for six runs.

O'Neil beamed two batters and walked another to load the bases. Mensik then drove in two runs with a double and catcher Gabe Taylor drove in another with an RBI single. The Ducks, however, eventually lost 16-6.

Behind two strong pitching performances from Mensik and Kurt Langworthy, Oregon was able to keep with the Bobcats in a doubleheader Saturday, but fell 7-5 in the first game and 7-6 in the second. Oregon was plagued by several costly errors on Saturday, Bodner said.

The Ducks will play Southern Oregon this weekend.

after 36 holes. Byers is in a tie for ninth and Ellis is tied for 38th.

Last year Oregon had great success at the tournament, winning by 17 strokes over Washington. Junior John Ellis and senior Chris Carnahan tied for third place with final scores of 210 to lead Oregon. Although the tables have turned this year around, the Ducks look to go out and do all they can.

The Ducks will play the final round today.

"We are coming up and going to do the best we can," Nosler said.

Cleveland uses long ball to pull away from Twins

By Sheldon Ocker
Knight Ridder Newspapers

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland baseball club knows how to do home openers. After more than 100 years of practice, it probably should.

But there's always a catch. It's called the visiting team, in this case the Twins, a formidable enemy, who came to Jacobs Field Monday with a 5-1 record, putting them in a tie for the Central Division lead with Cleveland.

It's so early in the season, making a serious reference to the standings is a meaningless exercise. But what the heck, the Twins have been touted by many to be the successors to the Cleveland as division champions, so a four-game April series might provide a few clues to the strength of each club.

Early in the game, Ryan Drese seemed to be on a futile quest for a way to stop the Twins, who looked as if they would dominate the Tribe. But Minnesota's lead melted away before the onslaught of the Cleveland' power attack, the Tribe coming from behind twice to gain a 9-5 victory.

Cleveland power? Isn't this the team that was declared over the winter by the losses of Roberto Alomar, Juan Gonzalez and Marty Cordova?

Ever since the Winter Meetings, the overused phrase "little ball" has become synonymous with Cleveland baseball. So much so that some Tribe players have heard enough.

The Cleveland whacked three lethal home runs off noted left-hander Eric Milton (1-1, 7.36 ERA) to produce eight runs Monday.

In Cleveland's first at-bat, Omar Vizquel drove in Matt Lawton with a triple, and Ellis Burks slammed a two-run homer to erase the 2-0 lead Minnesota had forged in the top of the first.

After the Twins scored two more runs off Drese in the third to retake the lead, Travis Fryman lifted a prodigious bases-loaded fly into the left-field bleachers for the sixth grand slam of his career.

Lawton administered the final nail in the Minnesota coffin, a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Oh well, little ball will have to wait another day.

win in the Pac-10, it's all about the details and discipline. We need to be better in serving, returning and shot selection."

The Ducks played better in doubles against the Sun Devils. Kost and King won their match, 8-4, but Menke and freshman Johan Paalberg lost 8-2. Teig and Swinnen lost 9-8 in the deciding match.

"As a team, we were right there in doubles and had a great chance to take the lead," Menke said.

But Oregon fell behind 1-0. Kost, Teig and Menke lost in the top three spots in singles to give Arizona State the victory. In the bottom of the order, Swinnen and King picked up wins.

"I was a little tentative at the beginning of the match," said King after earning his first career Pac-10 win. "Everybody's going to be good in the Pac-10, so it's all mental and attention to detail. I made smart decisions in my shots and I was able to return most of his serves."

The Ducks, the only Pac-10 team not ranked, fell to 12-7 overall (0-4 Pac-10). They are back in action Friday against No. 19 USC and face No. 2 UCLA on Saturday.

"Right now we need to get everybody together and practice hard next week," Teig said. "As a team, we need to keep our heads up."

The two losses were difficult for Russell to accept, but he said the team can take some things from the weekend.

"Nothing will be handed to our team," he said. "They need to raise their intensity level in practice to better prepare themselves for upcoming matches. I hope they took that from the losses to the Arizona schools. USC and UCLA are very good teams, but we're a scrappy team and anything can happen in the Pac-10."
