UO athletes have strong performance in competition

For a handful of University athletes, the USA Outdoor Track & Field Championships were as easy as one, two, three, four.

Redshirt junior Becky Holliday and redshirt sophomore Jason Hartmann led the half dozen University track and field athletes who competed in the championships June 21-23 at Stanford University's Cobb Track and Angell Field in Palo Alto, Calif.

Holliday tied for the top finish among collegiate athletes and tied for fifth overall in the pole vault with a height of 13-9 1/4.

Hartmann, a two-time All-American in track and cross country, finished second among collegians and eighth overall in the 10,000 meters. His time of 28:46:76 set a personal best by more than four seconds.

With a toss of 163-5, sophomore Sarah Malone ranked third among collegiates and sixth overall in the javelin. Malone competed in the event for her second straight year, previously placing sixth in 2001.

Junior Mary Etter also placed third among college athletes and 10th overall in the discuss with a distance of 169-4.

With a height of 13-5 1/4, red-shirt junior Niki Reed placed fourth among collegiate athletes and 10th overall for her performance in the pole vault.

Senior Micah Harris ended his career with the Ducks, failing to advance into later rounds and finishing 19th overall in the 110 hurdles.

Local baseball player named Batter of the Week

Eugene Emeralds right fielder Steve Baker started off his professional baseball career on the right foot.

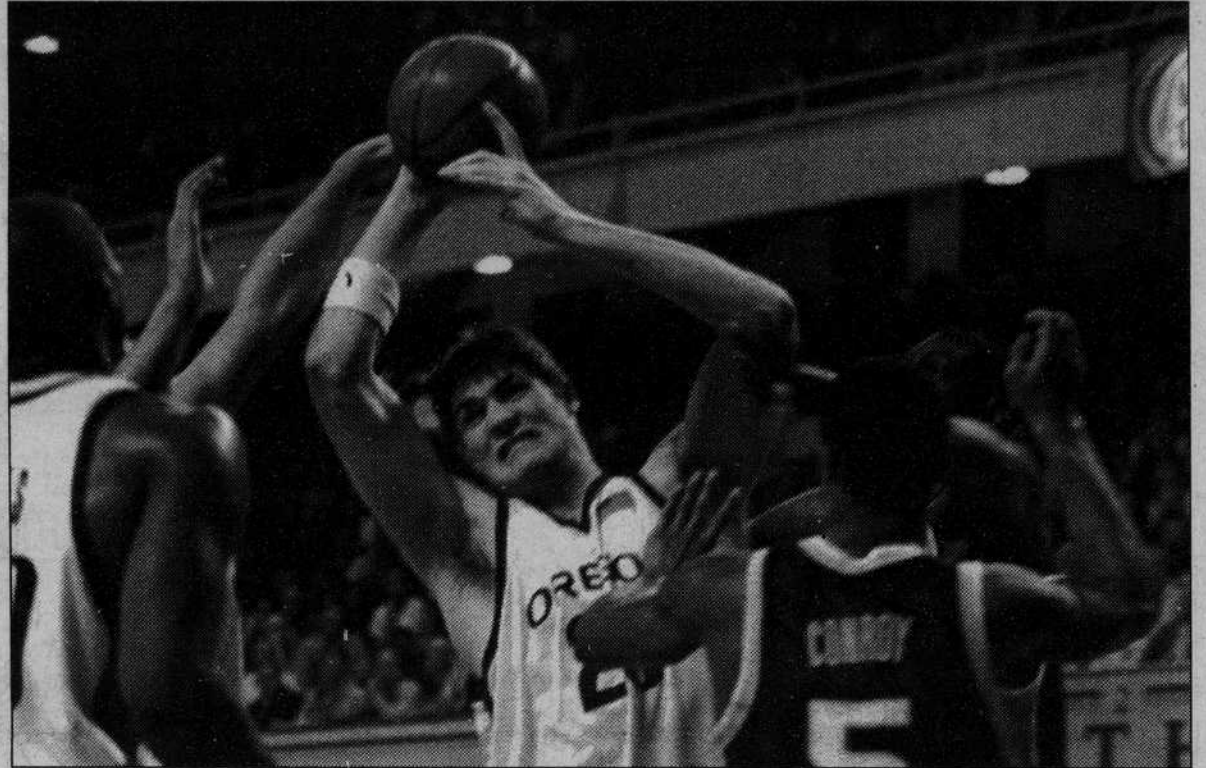

On Monday, Baker was named Batter of the Week by the Northwest League for his solid hitting during the first week of the season.

Selected by the San Diego Padres in the 29th round of the 2002 Major League Baseball draft, Baker hit .474 with three home runs and eight RBIs in the team's first six games.

Baker was instrumental in helping the Emeralds grab their first victory of the season Saturday, hitting a three-run home run in the 5-1 win.

The Emeralds, 2-6 as of Tuesday, return to Eugene on Friday to open a three-game series against Everett.

make. Christensen, who played with Jones for four years, believes they'll be significant.

"Freddie will be a better NBA player than he was as a college player," Christensen said.

Other than guard Jay Williams, Christensen said Jones has the quickest first step of all the players in the draft. Christensen added that Jones' decision to attend Chicago pre-draft workouts while injured helped show potential teams his dedication.

Kent, however, disagreed. "The reality is he had an injury," Kent said. "I don't think it hurt him or helped him."

Christensen said Jones would fit in best with an athletic, fast-paced team such as Sacramento or Dallas. Except for Miller, Indiana features a young, energetic squad featuring former Trail Blazer Jermaine

Frederick Jones, selected 14th overall by the Indiana Pacers, became the first first-round draft pick from Oregon since 1991 and only the eighth all-time first-round pick from the University.

Former Oregon first-round selections:
• Terrell Brandon, Cleveland, 1991 (11th overall pick)

- Blair Rasmussen, Denver, 1985 (15th)
- Greg Ballard, Washington, 1977 (4th)
- Ron Lee, Phoenix, 1976 (10th)
- Stan Love, Baltimore, 1971 (9th)
- Jim Barnett, Boston, 1966 (8th)
- Jim Loscutoff, Boston, 1954 (4th)

O'Neal, Jonathan Bender and the 2001 draft's diamond-in-the-rough, Jamaal Tinsley.

Indiana's head coach, former NBA great Isiah Thomas, is known to be a good judge of talent. Perhaps Thomas picked Jones knowing teams selecting after Indiana coveted the former Oregon star.

Some question the pick, however. ESPN.com's NBA Insider Chad Ford believes the selection was unwise. Ford wrote that the selection was too high and that Jones should have been picked no sooner than perhaps 21st.

Jones led Oregon to the Elite Eight last year and was selected as the team's MVP. Jones, named a third-team All-American by Basketball Times and a fourth team All-American by the Associated Press, finished his career with the Ducks ranked in eight top-10 categories. Among his accomplishments, Jones finished fifth in scoring, fifth in 3-pointers, seventh in field goals, second in steals, third in assists and tied for fourth in blocked shots.
