though it requires more creativity than simply throwing yourself down a chute of water. In this case, an inflatable body board is used to propel down the 25-foot slide at ungodly speeds. Surf Rider is the longest slide that Wham-O offers in its Slip 'N Slide collection.

Of course, for the lazy people who don't like running or sliding, there is an "ancient" pastime that can be celebrated in comfort of a backyard.

anyone say that it's your birthday. A Pearl Street employee will beat a big, loud drum, drawing all attention to your face. Your ears and blushing skin will never forgive you.

Before the revamping of the Oakway Center, there were a mere 14 ice cream-serving establishments in the Eugene-Springfield area, but now, with the opening of Cold Stone Creamery, there are 15, and 15 is the perfect number of ice cream-eating options.

The uniquely divine Cold Stone has entered our little haven called

The tradition involves filling up a children's pool with water, sitting in it and drinking strawberry daiquiris until the sun goes down.

Participants in this traditional relaxation technique may also enjoy reading, or wheeling the television outside instead of drinking. Whichever method you choose, this can be the best and most inexpensive way to beat the heat.

Eugene. With ice cream that tastes like magical elves helped in the production, who could go wrong?

The best part of Cold Stone is that the flavors are limited only by your imagination. Start with a base ice cream flavor, such as cheesecake, and add more ingredients, such as graham crackers and raspberries, and voilá, you've got your very own cooling concoction. Enjoy the creamy delights of Cold Stone while cooling off humidity-soaked skin in the courtyard of the Oakway Center.
