brain are involved with information processing," Nunnally said. "(But) we don't know how these change with age."

Another area of research the machine will be involved in is plasticity studies — that is, learning how deaf people "re-wire" the part of their brain normally used in the auditory process to enhance their visual process.

Funding for the Neuroinformatics Center came from the Department of Defense, while the neuroimaging center was financed through grants, Department of Defense funds and a pledge from University alumni Bob and Beverly Lewis. Both centers will work together in pursuing joint proposals for additional funding.

have done a better job getting the word out about the potential effects of a successful special election.

"A key factor that influenced the level of publicized information about the election was the time restraint," Hall said.

Considering the pressing Nov. 1 submission deadline for this year's special election results, Hall said it was a trying task to rally student participation.

Ballot Measure 6.16 will modify the budget for ASUO and EMU facility reserve funds, which would be used to repair any catastrophic damages to the building. Pilliod said such funds also allow for needed repairs, such as the building's septic problems and ceiling leaks, which slowly increase in severity over time.

Ballot Measure 12.2 will allow the ASUO election to be held between Feb. 1 and April 30 of each year. As the hoots and hollers of the rejoicing ASUO staff began to die down about 5:30 p.m., Pilliod sighed with a smile and glanced over the list of people to call with the results.

"This is all very good news," she said.

— not even earthquakes!"

Similarly, Ballot Measure 16 would amend the Oregon Constitution so the state could issue general obligation bonds to protect emergency service buildings to withstand earthquakes. These buildings include fire stations, hospitals, police stations, sheriff's offices and similar facilities used by any level of government.

The measure would require the same repayment as Measure 15, and both estimate no financial effect on
