

OKATEE GOLF CLUB
Golf at its Finest
College Students - $22 for 18 holes & $12 for 9 holes
822-3220

ODE Classifieds
346-4343

PAGANINI SHOWPIECE

THE passion THE power THE promise

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 8 PM
EUGENE FODOR, VIOLIN GIANCARLO GUERRERO, CONDUCTOR

Paganini may well have been violin's first rock star. His "La Campanella" is a virtuosic blockbuster—luscious, swooning, with finger-bending fireworks requiring super-human technique. What listener could fail to be seduced?

EUGENE SYMPHONY 682-5000 • EMU BOX OFFICE eugenesymphony.org

STUDENT TICKETS $10

Leftover Salmon

"WestBound 2003"

Thursday March 13th, 2003
McDonald Theater
1010 Willamette, Eugene, OR 541-345-4442

Doors: 7pm
Show: 8pm
Tickets: $15 adv/ $18 dos
Special Guests:
The Flying Other Brothers
featuring Pete Sears

Ages: All
www.leftoversalmon.com

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.
presents...

"A PORTRAIT THROUGH TIME"

THE TENTH ANNUAL
BLACK HERITAGE FASHION SHOW
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 2003
3:08 PM

FEATURING UO/OSU MODELS, MUSIC, DANCE, AND STEP PERFORMANCE

FREE! EMU BALLROOM, U OF O FREE!

WOW HALL
Community Center for the Performing Arts 8th & Lincoln

■ Tonight ■
Swords Project
The Standard
Visible Men
Rock
$6 door, 8:00 pm

■ Friday ■
Tart, Andrea Maxand
Alpha Charlie
Like Breathing
DJ Velo of Sister PDX
with a special appearance by Kris Novoselic
Benefit for UO Sports & Entertainment Law Forum (SELF)
$10 advance, $12 door, 8:00 pm

■ Saturday & Sunday ■
Eugene Dance Festival Workshops

■ Saturday ■
Eugene Dance Festival Party with Son Mela'o
Joint Forces Dance Company
Latin Salsa Dance/Dance Performance
$8 advance, $10 door, $4 w/ workshop 8:00 pm

■ Tuesday ■
Reverend Horton Heat
Unknown Hinson
Psychobilly
$8 advance, $18 door, 8:00 pm
All Ages Welcome • 687-2746

RECYCLE

Online exclusive

An extensive gallery of photos from Saturday's anti-war march and rally in Eugene is now on the Web.

Go to www.dailyemerald.com, select "Special Editions" and then "IMAGE GALLERIES"

Music
continued from page 5

genres, available even for some of the slowest connection speeds.

Then there is album — tape, minidisc, CD, etc. — trading. With the Internet's worldwide appeal and nearly universal accessibility, music fans can find the best trading resources and the widest selection. Usenet newsgroups are another good resource for finding underground exchanges and artist information. There are Usenet programs for nearly every type of computer and platform, but a good Web-based option is "Google Groups" at groups.google.com.

All of these places can be accessed through a Web browser. However, a whole new generation of peer-to-peer software clients similar to Napster have come to fruition since the company's legal downfall. The "Kazaa" and "Grokster" programs even improve on what Napster offered by allowing users to exchange files in any format they desire — not just MP3. There are also alternatives such as the "Gnutella" system of programs; two prevalent clients are "BearShare" and "LimeWire."

Have you ever wanted to know what a "magnolia root borer" sounds like? Visit the "Reference Library of Digitized Insect Sounds" Web site at <http://cmave.usda.uzf.edu/~rmankin/soundlibrary.html> to hear this, and dozens of other insects.

Contact the Pulse reporter at aaronshakra@dailyemerald.com.

Helquist
continued from page 1

fan, a beach lover and a single man. And while he lives for the game and towers above most on the team, Helquist said sunny blue skies, close friends and his mother's lasagna are the things that make his heart smile.

"I love the sun and the surf," he said, reminiscing about his Florida upbringing. "It's relaxing."

Born and raised in Jacksonville, Fla., Helquist attended University Christian High School before he started his college career at Louisiana State University on athletic scholarship. After a year at LSU, Helquist transferred to Florida Community College in Jacksonville for two years before ar-

Weekly feature
This is the first in a series of articles highlighting basketball player's lives outside the Pit.

iving at the University in fall 2001.

As a psychology major, 23-year-old Helquist said he has always been interested in why people behave in certain ways. Working hard to finish his 400-level course requirements, Helquist said his favorite class winter term has been sign language, which does not surprise his mother, Ann, in the least.

"He's interested in any situation where people are overcoming challenges," she said.

Ann, an art teacher at a Christian school, and her husband, Steve, an unemployment insurance specialist, currently reside in Jacksonville and miss their son most around the holidays. Raised in a religious home, Helquist — an Episcopalian — said Christmas is his favorite holiday because he is able to celebrate with his three brothers and six nieces and nephews.

Helquist did not see his family between September 2001 and June 2002. Assuming his second year at the University would be the same, his family held a Christmas/Thanksgiving party for him before he left for school in September 2002.

"It's pretty difficult for us when he is away for so long," Ann said.

In his younger years, Helquist went with the flow and stood on his own two feet, she said. Having been very sociable since birth, Helquist still stands tall — at six feet nine inches — and remains easy-going, she added.

Close friend Rob Simmons sees that side of Helquist on a regular basis.

"We hang out every single day," the 26-year-old said.

Simmons met Helquist through a mutual friend a year ago and has considered him a good buddy ever since. When they are not at Taylor's kicking back with a brew or being couch potatoes and playing Grand Theft Auto, Simmons said Helquist is all about the team and does not always have time to enjoy the game with friends.

"We don't really hoop when he's in season," he said. "We just kick it every night on the daily."

Looking forward to a lifelong camaraderie, Simmons said Helquist brings genuine, kind-hearted energy to the friendship.

"It doesn't really matter who I hang out with as long as they are honest, good-hearted people," Helquist said. "That's all that matters."

After studying at the college level for five years, Helquist said he's eager to graduate in June and added that he hopes to play at "the next level" one day.

"I'm ready to move on," Helquist said.

He's nobody's baby now.

Contact the reporter at caronalarab@dailyemerald.com.

THIS WEEK AT JOHN HENRY'S

FRIDAY • 21TH
$4 CHEVRON MINE'S LIGHTS
10:00 PM MORALS

SATURDAY • 22ND
2 BUCKS SHORT $4
DARLING DAZIES (FROM NORWAY) 10:00 PM
BLASPHEMOUS ABNORMALITY
MONKEE TORTURE

FREE EARLY SHOW THE VISIBLE MEN
5:00 PM PERFORM THE WHO SELL OUT FREE

SUNDAY • 23TH
CAPGUN $3 NEAR MISS
SLICIDE 9:00 PM
PAINT BY #'S HANDGUN BRAVADO

MONDAY • 24TH
ERIC $5
MCFADDEN GUITARIST FOR 10:00 PM
GEORGE CLINTON & P-FUNK

77 WEST BROADWAY
(NEXT TO LAZAR'S BAZAAR) 342-3358