Sports brief

Ganes earns honor

Freshman Carolyn Ganes of the Oregon women's basketball team was selected to the Honorable Mention Freshman All-American team Tuesday by Womenscollegehoops.com.

The center from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, was one of 27 freshmen honored. The Web site chose five players each on the first, second and third teams and 12 on the honorable mention list.

In her first season, Ganes co-lead the team in scoring with a 10.9 points per game average while shooting 47 percent from the floor. Ganes was also a 40 percent three-point shooter and consistent at 79 percent from the foul line.

Also from the Pacific-10 Conference, Arizona Center Shawntinice Polk was chosen for the first team while Arizona State forward Jill Noe earned honorable mention recognition.

Prior to the 2002-03 season, the Web site also listed Ganes as one of 21 "Freshmen of Impact."

Matt Kegel, backup last season to the since-departed Jason Gesser, completed 16-of-25 passes for 273 yards and three scores. He is the front-runner for the starting quarterback spot in the upcoming season.

For the Wildcats, the chance to compete against each other came early — specifically in the team's ninth session of workouts. Instead of ending the spring with the game, head coach John Mackovic decided to put his players through a shorts and shoulder pads workout Thursday at Arizona Stadium.

That's an uncommon way to end spring workouts, but for a team that finished in the cellar of the Pac-10, maybe it's a welcome format. "From where we started to where we are, we are comfortable, but I know that we are not satisfied and not ready to go and start the season right away," Mackovic said. "We definitely will need the training camp to be able to assist us in preparing for the regular season."
