Harmon could not be reached by the Emerald for comment.

So Harmon, a three-time All-American with international coaching experience, has been replaced by Deal, a four-time Olympian.

Harmon's honor roll includes three national champions and 17 All-America honors. And from 1990-98, she coached six of the eight Pacific-10 Conference champions.

She also owns the third-best all-time mark at Oregon in the javelin at 190 feet, 4 inches set in 1982, the same year she finished third in the NCAA Championships.

Who makes the Pac-10 top 10?

With the Pac-10 Championships a mere five days away, Oregon has the potential to score high, as many athletes made the top-10 of the conference standings.

As of May 5, senior Janette Davis sits in the fourth spot of the 400 meters at 53.87 seconds. After scoring in the Pac-10 meet last year, Davis has leaped from seventh to fourth all-time at Oregon.

Senior Eri Macdonald also ranks fourth in the 800 meter race in 2:07.40 and will look to have continued success this weekend as she has scored points in the event every year since 2000.

Redshirt senior Becky Holliday is the only Duck to top the standings as she leads the pole vault crowd by 1/4 inch. The school record holder was runner-up at the 2002 Pac-10s.

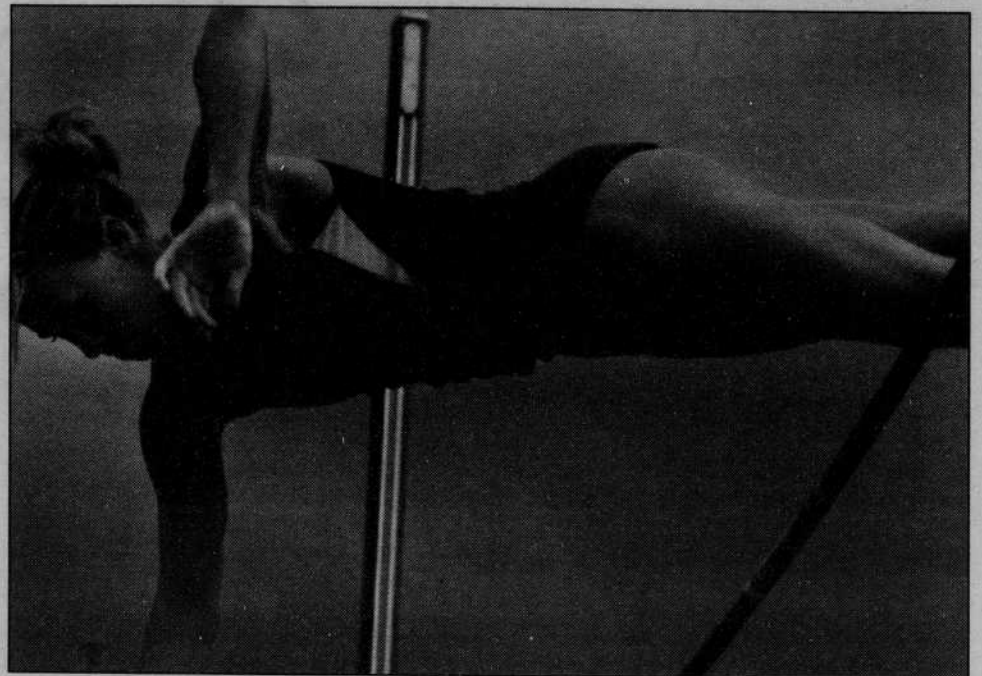

And Mary Etter, who ranks in Oregon's top five all-time in each of her events, will compete in her last Pac-10 championships. The Everett, Wash., native stands at third (176 feet) in the discus and eighth (49-2 1/4) in the shot put, respectively.

Time to get dirrrty

Senior Lisa Aguilera was honored as the Pac-10 Women's Track Athlete of the Week on May 3.

Aguilera set a Sun Devil and Pac-10 record in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, blazing by in 9:51.65. The Peoria, Ariz., native tops the collegiate ranks this year and leads the list by nearly three seconds.

State, North Carolina, Long Island and Colgate.

No. 1-seed Washington, the No. 5 seed overall, will be the favorite in Lincoln, Neb. Host Nebraska earned the No. 2 seed, while the No. 3 seed went to Iowa and the No. 4 seed to Mississippi State. Florida International, Pacific, Hofstra and Creighton round out the region.

"I'm happy that we are a No. 1 seed," Washington head coach Teresa Wilson said. "Nebraska has a gorgeous stadium and beautiful facilities. They will put on a quality event with great crowds and we just have to go back there and play ball."

Defending national champion California will travel to Ann Arbor, Mich., with a No. 2 seed. DePaul earned the No. 7 seed overall and the No. 1 seed in Ann Arbor, while host Michigan is the No. 3 seed. The regional also includes No. 4 Notre Dame, Missouri, Western Michigan, Oakland and Wright State.

Stanford earned the Pac-10's second No. 2 seed and a trip to Tuscaloosa, Ala. Host Alabama drew the regional's No. 1 seed, with Massachusetts receiving a No. 3 seed and Illinois the No. 4 seed. Georgia Tech, Southern Illinois, Chattanooga and Southern are the rest of the teams in the regional.

The Pac-10's second No. 3 seed, Arizona State, travels to Austin, Texas, where host Texas earned the No. 1 seed. No. 2 Northwestern and No. 4 LSU join Hawaii, Southwest Texas State, Tennessee Tech and Texas A&M—Corpus Christi.

Oregon State was the Pac-10 question mark, but the Beavers drew a No. 6 seed in the Gainesville, Fla., regional hosted by No. 3-seed Florida. No. 1-seed Oklahoma picked up the No. 4 overall seed, while Florida State earned a No. 2 seed and South Florida received a No. 4 seed.

"This is a great region — we've seen Florida State this year and have played Oklahoma in the past," Oregon State associate head coach Jenny Condon said. "We've been playing well as of late, and our win against California helps our momentum going into the postseason."

Favorite — Arizona?

Former Wildcat pitcher and winner of ESPN Page 2's "Hottest Female Athlete" poll, Jennie Finch assisted with the NCAA Regionals selection show. She was asked witty questions such as "What does it take to do well in these tournaments?" and "How do players and coaches feel while waiting for this regional announcement?" She offered no substantive comments on the bracket results.

Running

Hartling finished the 26.2-mile course in just over three hours.

In an attempt to keep the club heading in a positive direction, Carpenter and Bauman will share coordinator duties next season. The duo will focus on scheduling more events and improving the intensity level of workouts, which include running hills, long distances and weight training. Most importantly, they want to increase participation.

"If you're looking to get in shape, or just get up to par in road races, we can help," Carpenter said.

Shannon Parks, who is in her first year with the club, said running fulfills many different aspects of life. Parks, a freshman from Hawaii, said running not only acts as a fix for her competitive urges, but is a way to relax and a way to build friendships among teammates.

"We're open to all calibers of runner," Parks said. "Challenging yourself makes you a stronger person."
