News brief

New leadership takes control of ASUO Student Senate

A changing of the guard occurred on Wednesday evening as the 2002-03 ASUO student senators relinquished their seats to the 2003-04 ASUO Student Senate-elects. Retiring senators shared advice and memories before leaving the table.

The 2003-04 senate addressed several housekeeping issues, special requests and the nominations for summer session senate president and vice president positions in their first meeting.

The senate approved special requests for fund transfers for the Black Student Union's graduation ceremony, the senate's finance committee barbecue, Black Women of Achievement's Ebony Man Event, KWVA's pager service and Pre-Health's event to honor program contributors.

The senate also granted the ASUO Executive a special request of $1,930 out of surplus to be used toward the deficit created during special elections. The deficit was partly a result of higher advertising costs and mandatory advertising requirements. The executive is unable to budget for special elections during the ASUO Programs Finance Committee budget process because special elections are not a planned event.

The senate also began preparing for its summer session, which meets periodically throughout the summer months. Mena Ravassipour, senate seat two, was nominated for senate president for summer session, and Aryn Clark, senate seat five, was nominated for vice president for summer session. Nominations and elections for the 2003-04 school year senate president and vice president will occur next fall.

The senate will meet once during dead week before adjourning for the summer. Summer session will begin after finals week and is expected to meet at least once before June 30.
