around football player.

"He's a great leader for our team," Radcliffe said. "He wants to be the first one down the field to make a tackle and he's always inspired. A lot of people don't think of a kicker being in a leadership role, but because of the way he approaches his job and this team, I think he is a leader."

Siegel's numbers appear deserving of respect in their own right. He finished the 2002 season third in the league in scoring (8.4 avg.) and 13th in the country in field goals made per game (1.54 avg.).

Siegel has already set a school record for career PATs (100), as well as most consecutive field goals made (15). He also owns a share of the Ducks' record for consecutive kicks converted at 54.

And although he has had his share of accomplishments, Siegel is by no means satisfied with two years of eligibility left.

"Individually I want to be better than I was last year and be a more consistent place-kicker," Siegel said. "Last year was a good season but it wasn't flawless by any means. Because I made mistakes last year, there is the possibility to raise the bar that much higher."

With the chance to be considered the nation's top place-kicker when 20 semifinalists are announced Nov. 3, and his newfound leadership role with inexperienced special teams, Siegel has some pressure ahead, but he doesn't mind.

"I think I thrive under pressure, and when the odds are against me I think I'm at my best," he said. "I like that a lot. That's an adjustment you have to make as an athlete. But I enjoy the attention and pressure that comes with."

tonight and (the) fast ball was good."

Right fielder Jeff Leise got the lead-off run in the fourth with a single that turned to a double after an error by Spokane. After Wahlbrink was walked, Ramos shot a single to left that scored Leise and gave Eugene the 4-0 lead.

Spokane put one run on the board in the top of the fifth off a triple by shortstop Ian Kinsler, yet it wouldn't be enough as the Ems coasted their way to victory.

The Ems won only their second game of a ten-game season series against Spokane; however, by winning the final game of this five-game series, and after Sunday's 12-inning loss, Eugene felt it had something to prove.

"We had confidence and we know we can beat them," Leise said. "Coach talked to us in the locker room yesterday and we knew we had something to prove. They've just taken it to us all year and we felt like we owed them something."

The Ems go on a three-game road trip to face Everett starting today before returning home for a five-game home stand against Boise.
