the Lumberjacks, 63-0. And the Sun Devils will be looking to win the season opener to try and match the hype of being ranked second in the Pac-10's preseason media poll and being nationally ranked for the first time since 1999.

Arizona State returns 37 letterwinners, 17 of whom started last year, including quarterback Andrew Walter who passed for a Sun Devil single-season record 3,877 yards in 2002.

San Jose State (1-1) at Stanford (0-0)

You have to wonder whether San Jose State has recovered from last year's matchup with the Cardinal. In what began as a close matchup, Stanford ended up romping the Spartans, 63-26.

In 2002, Stanford scored the most points against San Jose State that it had scored against any opponent in 21 years. The Cardinal leads the series overall, 44-13-1.

Colorado State (0-1) at California (1-1)

The Golden Bears have been thrust into the 2003 season faster than a Boeing 747 jet engine. Not only have they played two games thus far and are slated to face Colorado State this weekend, but both opponents were bowl game contenders in 2002.

Cal lost its opener to previously ranked No. 5 Kansas State, 42-28, but was able to rebound against Southern Mississippi in a solid 34-2 victory. The Rams are looking for their first win after a season-opening loss to in-state rival Colorado.

The Bears and Rams are meeting for the first time Saturday.

Oregon State (1-0) at Fresno State (0-1), Friday

The Beavers haven't won a game in Fresno, Calif., in their last five attempts, most recently losing 44-24 in 2001. But Oregon State had its way with the Bulldogs last season in Corvallis, winning 59-19.

Fresno State leads the overall series 7-5. Oregon State is off to a quick start after defeating Sacramento State 40-7 last week.
