struggle, but they also both have good days. Everybody has bad days.

"Whoever does step up to the job, I mean, whatever the coaches decide, that's their decision. They're going to have their decision."

When Fife and Clemens were on, the offense clicked and national publications took notice of the then-upstart Ducks.

Neither threw an interception through the first four games, and Clemens was ranked in the top-10 nationally in passing efficiency.

During that time, Fife threw or ran for a touchdown, helping lead the offense to more than 30 points each game.

Back then, the rotation was no controversy. Instead, Bellotti was receiving accolades for developing a scheme that worked so well.

The offense was working so well, in fact, that the Ducks nearly inserted a third quarterback into the offense. During Oregon's 48-10 win over Arizona, freshman Johnny DuRocher nearly came into the game, which would have ended any possibility of him redshirting the season.

"Ideally, I'd want to save my year," he said. "But if an emergency-type situation happened, I'd be more than happy to step in."

"It's hard to sit on the sideline every week, but it's what's best for me and the team."

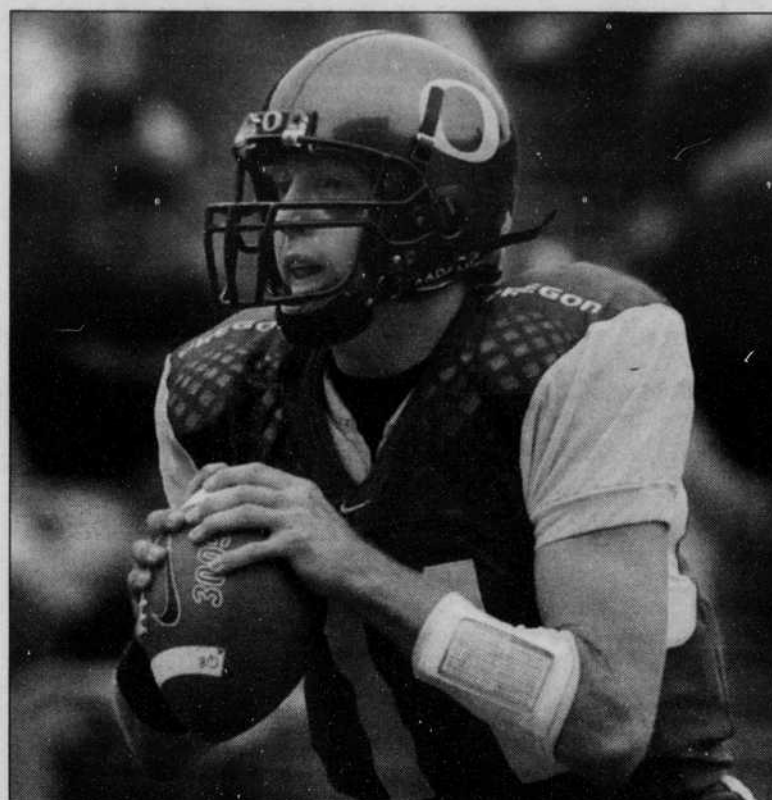

Clemens and Fife will both get on the field on Saturday against Stanford, and how each does will surely determine how the Oregon offense fares against the Cardinal.

Bellotti, for one, expects Clemens to get over the demons that haunted him against the Sun Devils.

"I expect Kellen to come back with a vengeance," Bellotti said. "He's a winner. He's a young man that has an inner strength that will sustain him and it is our job to provide the confidence, and I have confidence in him."

"In fact, I have confidence in both our quarterbacks. I've seen them play and play very well and be part of the solution, and I expect them to be that again."

Oregon Daily Emerald

Homecoming

Saturday, October 25 2003

All Oregon Daily Emerald alumni are invited to join our annual tailgate party 90 minutes prior to kick-off at Autzen Stadium.

Our tent will be located in the same great spot as last year among the group of hospitality tents in the east parking lot closest to the east stadium entrance. Look for the Oregon Daily Emerald banner on the side of the tent.

Co-hosted with the UO School of Journalism and Communication.

Hope to see you all there!
