straight and take care of business during the game."

Even though not one of the current seniors played in the 1999 game, they were there. They stood on the sidelines and remember the feeling of attending their first bowl game.

The seniors have spoken with one another about their past experiences and hope to be able to offer advice to the younger players who are in a position they are familiar with.

"I'll be able to add some perspective to these guys and let them know it's going to be a fun time for them and something to always remember," Fife said. "For these guys this year and for them to experience it, it will be good for them."
