Bellotti said. "But we have had success with junior college players."

He did say the Ducks recruited two or three junior college players but they did not commit to Oregon.

Oregon also failed to sign a quarterback, instead figuring that a quartet of Kellen Clemens, Johnny DuRocher, Brady Leaf and Dennis Dixon was good enough to start the 2004 season. Bellotti did go after one quarterback, Glencoe (Hillsboro) High School's Erik Ainge, but he committed to Tennessee.

"We're very excited about the young quarterbacks we have," Bellotti said.

After failing to sign a running back a year ago, Bellotti landed two: Moreno Valley, Calif.'s, Terrell Jackson and Portland's T.R. Smith. Both signed to play with the Ducks, and both are highly recruited athletes.

Jackson was named one of the top 15 running backs in the nation by Super-Prep magazine after rushing for 2,664 yards for Centennial High School.

"He is an explosive back that is very good in terms of making people miss, then finishing the play," Bellotti said.

Smith originally made a verbal commitment to Oregon State, but changed his mind and will be coming to Eugene. The Jefferson High School star was rated as the state's third-best running back.

"When you have the ball in his hands, great things happen," Bellotti said.

In addition to Colvin's announcement on ESPN, the Ducks made inroads nationally. Kwame Agyeman, a 5-foot-10 safety from Lake Park High School, is from Itasca, Ill.

"He is a hitter," Bellotti said. "He has the ability to contribute on special teams and earn playing time next season."

Micah Howeth signed with the Ducks out of W.T. White High School in Dallas. The defensive lineman was ranked in the top 100 prospects in the state of Texas.

Besides Smith, the Ducks signed three players from Oregon: David Faaeteete, a 6-foot-2 defensive lineman from Medford; 6-foot-4 tight end Ryan Keeling, from Springfield's Thurston High School; and Forest Grove's Cole Linehan, a 6-foot-4 defensive lineman.

DOUBLES

Manuel Kost, has dominated its opponents. Behind Bieri's power from his 6-foot-6 frame and Kost's all-around game, the Swiss duo won 32 of 38 games played without having lost more than two games in a set.

"We played really good doubles," Kost said. "We have hit good returns and good serving, which is the most important thing in doubles."

Junior Sven Swinnen has demonstrated signs of stepping up, which has earned him the No. 1 singles position. Swinnen defeated two ranked players — No. 82 Erik Nyman from Brigham Young and No. 88 Evghenii Corduneau of Louisiana-Lafayette — in straight sets last week. He has compiled an 8-0 record in the dual match season so far, teaming up with sophomore Arron Spencer at the No. 1 doubles slot.

Cameron Colvin (26) was rated as one of the top five receivers in the nation.

weekend," head coach Chris Russell said. "Going in, we knew this was going to test us. These are some teams we have had problems with in the past, so to win in the manner we did was really good for us."

The men will continue their play at home when Idaho visits Saturday at 12 p.m. in the Student Tennis Center.

Women also undefeated

The women have been equally as impressive as the men, if not more so, in losing only two points in the three dual matches played. The Ducks swept past their opponents in matches against Colorado and Nevada with 7-0 victories to improve to their 3-0 record.

One of the surprises is freshman sensation Dominika Dieskova, who has held her own at the No. 2 singles position behind junior Daria Panova, who is currently ranked eighth in the nation. Dieskova has a 6-0 dual match record that includes a straight set singles victory over No. 53 Anna Erikson of Sacramento State.

In addition to Dieskova, five other Ducks have undefeated dual match records, including Panova and seniors Courtney Nagle and Davina Mendiburu.
