Kelly O'Brien

The policies and practices of the University Bookstore have a profound effect on each student at the U of O. My experience as the ASUO Marketing intern for the past two terms has given me an inside look at how to positively affect students on campus. I am also currently serving on the International Career Networking Committee, which has enhanced my leadership and communication skills when interacting with all types of people. If elected, I will work to make the Bookstore more accessible to all students and to create new ways to reach out to the student body. Vote Kelly O'Brien for UO Bookstore Board of Directors Sophomore Seat (two year term)!

Jeremy Robertson

I won't let you down. Vote for me and you'll be set. Thanks a lot. I'm looking forward to the election. See you later.

Shannon Tarvin

In my past leadership experience I have found that it is imperative to have as much communication with your constituency as possible. The most obvious reason is so that you know who it is you represent and what it is that they want. The other purpose is to let them know about what you do and how it affects them. As the Campus Outreach Coordinator for the ASUO this past year, my whole purpose was to educate and inform so that the campaigns I worked on were both widely and deeply felt on campus. It is my desire to continue to work for students and I feel that the Bookstore Board provides and excellent opportunity to do so. I feel that my work here at the University and even before have given me the skills needed to be effective on this board, that is why I ask you to cast a vote next to my name, Shannon Tarvin.

Dennis Worden

I think people should consider me as a candidate for this position because although I have never worked in a position like this before, I have had experience working with large groups of people to accomplish tasks. I think me coming into this position with no motives or expectations is good for the board because it will let me make decisions that I think are best for the bookstore, not just achieving personal goals. It is for my unbiased opinions of the position that people should consider for my position.

Nicole Wickswat

Now is the time to choose a new Bookstore Board of Directors,
If you had your
Choice
Of all the fish in the sea, who would it be?
Leadership and a cheerleader is who I am,
Experience and the Business Honors College go hand in hand.
What concerns you, concerns me
Integrating my ideas,
Collaborating with yours
Knowing what needs to be done
Simply still having fun!
Why not choose me, to
Advocate for you?
To vote for me, is what you can do!

OFFICER OF ADMINISTRATION

Jennifer Creighton-Neiwert

Jennifer Creighton-Neiwert

After having spent time on the University Bookstore Board, I have seen the University of Oregon Bookstore undergo many changes. The next few years will present opportunities for even more change and growth. The Board needs members with vision and experience.

I have and will work to ensure that the Bookstore meets the needs of both students and staff. In my position as the ASUO Accounting Coordinator, I deal with students and staff from across campus on a daily basis. My interactions with them will enable me to represent the diverse opinions and needs that exist within the campus community. I have enjoyed the opportunity to use my skills and knowledge to add to the Bookstore Board of Directors. Vote for Jennifer Creighton-Neiwert for the Classified/Officer of Administration position on the University of Oregon Bookstore Board Of Directors.
