NCAA

"This is an example of what we feel is bad judgment in the eleventh hour of crunch time, which is no excuse." Football head coach Mike Bellotti said he will continue to stress to his coaches the importance of obeying NCAA recruiting rules in the future.

"I am very aware that it puts our entire University in jeopardy as I think everybody else is too," Bellotti said. "It's unfortunate and we're going to work very hard to make sure it doesn't happen again."

According to a NCAA news release, the 52-year-old Campbell traveled to the prospect's hometown the day before the recruiting deadline on Jan. 16. The prospect considered signing a national letter of intent to attend either the University of Oregon or University of California-Berkeley.

After Campbell contacted the athlete for the third time, this time by phone, the prospect agreed to meet Campbell at his hotel after the midnight deadline. After finding the letter of intent unsigned, the prospect was instructed to forge his father's signature and falsely indicate that both signatures were made before the deadline.

It is a violation for an assistant to be present when a recruit signs a letter of intent.

Bellotti said he was immediately made aware of the violations after they occurred and contacted his supervisors and the Pac-10.

"Our coaches are on alert, as they have been before this ever occurred, that we take these things very serious," Bellotti said. "We will continue to emphasize that."

Campbell will remain as the running backs coach, but has been reassigned to a different area of recruiting, said Bellotti.

"He's aware of what he needs to do to reestablish his position as a recruiter," Bellotti said. "Gary is a great man, a great coach and does great things with his players. He is very anxious to put this behind him and get on with his career as a football coach."

PULSE BRIEF

Actors Cabaret to hold auditions for 'Seussical'

The Actors Cabaret of Eugene will hold auditions for an upcoming performance of "Seussical," a musical based on the works of children's book author Dr. Seuss.

Director Joe Zingo said that the company is looking for men and women age 17 and older, as well as children 10 or older.

"We're looking for actors with good improvisational skills, since the performance includes a lot of audience interaction," Zingo said. "We also need everyone to be strong, aggressive vocalists."

"Seussical" is intended to be part of a fall season devoted to family-oriented entertainment which will also include a performance of "The Wizard of Oz."

"We like to balance out our years with different kinds of performances," Zingo said. "When we heard that 'Seussical' was going to be released, we called and got the rights to do it within two days. It's really perfect for what we are doing, and we'll be one of the first companies on the West Coast to perform it."

Auditions for Seussical will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Actors Cabaret, located at 996 Willamette St. Rehearsals will take place throughout August and the production will take the stage September 17 through October 23.
