California senior wide receiver Geoff McArthur needs 221 yards to become the school's all-time leading receiver, and will look to move closer to the record against UCLA this weekend.

Pac-10: WSU takes on Stanford for homecomingContinued from page 10B thriller, 23-20.Stanford (3-2, 1-1) at Washington State (3-2, 1-1)

It is homecoming day in Pullman, Wash., this weekend as Washington State hosts Stanford at Martin Stadium.

Much like Cal, Washington State is enduring hardships suffered after last weekend. The Cougars lost 41-38 to Oregon after surrendering 27 points in the fourth quarter alone. Washington State needs a win this weekend to stay in the hunt for the Rose Bowl. For the Cougars however, this weekend will not be the mulligan win they are accustomed to having every season against Stanford.

The Cardinal is a legitimate team this year and has played tough in each of its two losses. Last weekend in South Bend, Ind., Stanford lost to Notre Dame, 23-15, in a game Cardinal head coach Buddy Teevens has regarded as a disappointment.

"We certainly had respect for that team (Notre Dame)," Teevens said. "But we came out ready to play. The players are sad, disappointed ... but they understand that it's critical to compete for 60 minutes."

As a Pac-10 team with only one conference loss, Stanford is far from out of making its first trip to Pasadena, Calif., for the Rose Bowl since 2000. It will have to play a stiff defensive game in order to beat Washington State, which features tailback Jerome Harrison. The junior rushed for 117 yards last weekend against Oregon.

Washington State has an explosive offense but must conquer the Stanford defense, which played well against USC earlier in the year.

The Husky faithful have reached trying times, but have enjoyed the past week following Washington's 21-6 win over San Jose State last Saturday. In the game, sophomore tailback Kenny James rushed for 189 yards and two touchdowns.

The Husky defense was stingy last week in the red zone and will need to be this Saturday when the Beavers come to town. The Beavers feature a high-powered offense led by senior quarterback Derek Anderson who leads the Pac-10 in passing yards.

Beaver head coach Mike Riley believes this weekend will be a challenging game Oregon State can win.

"The Huskies are like us in a lot of ways," Riley said. "They've played a lot of good football and had some very close games against some good teams."

The Beavers are coming off of a much needed bye-week. Their last game was a 49-7 home loss to Cal. Last season, Washington defeated Oregon State in Corvallis 38-17 in an upset that ended a four-game winning streak for the Beavers.
