UCLA: Olson thrives with return of Bragg

Pac-10 with 74 yards per game.

Drew ranks third in the Pac-10 in rushing yards (98.44 per game) and all-purpose yards (159.56 per game). The sophomore netted 384 total yards against Washington, which has been the top performance of any player in the nation this season. Drew has 886 rushing yards through eight starts and nine games.

Three players have had at least one run of 60 yards or more this season for UCLA: Drew, White and tailback Chris Markey.

Markey, a true freshman, has rushed for 194 yards on 30 carries and scored one touchdown.

Olson not looking for twin losses to Oregon

Olson would like to forget about the six sacks he fell victim to and the 22-yard interception that Oregon's Jerry Matson returned for a score last season.

The junior hurler would like to remember the respectable 249 yards he threw for and the 29 passes he completed in 49 attempts against the Ducks.

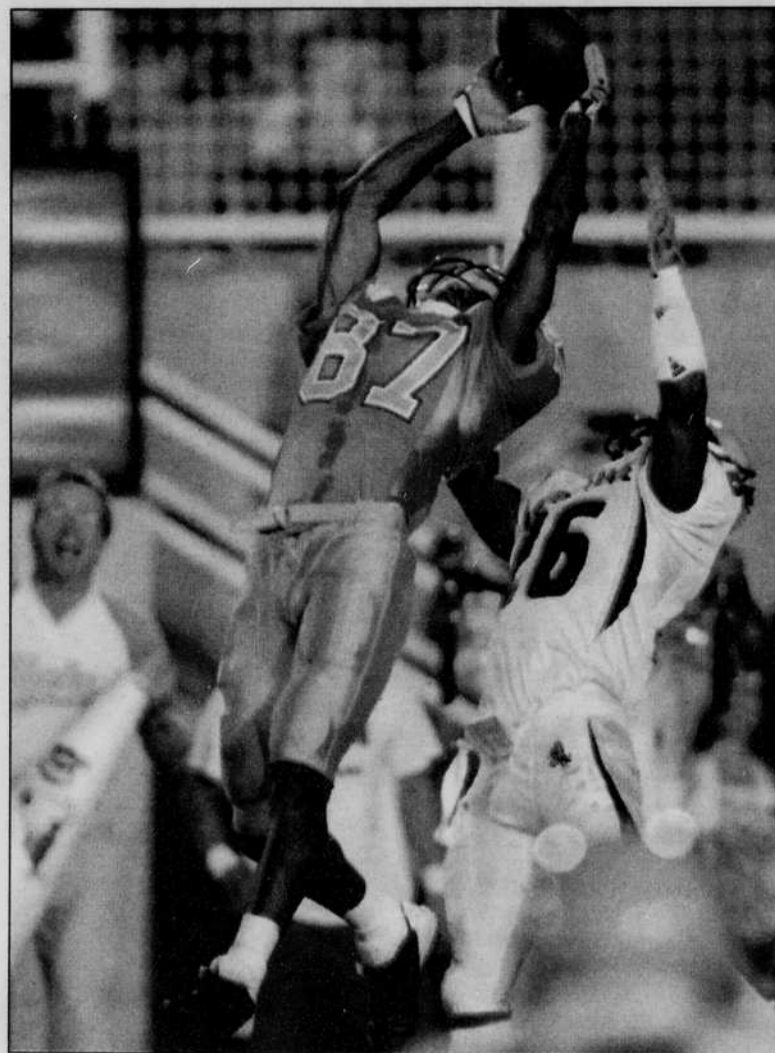

He is in search of touchdown pass No. 18 this weekend because only three other UCLA quarterbacks have thrown for at least 18 touchdowns in a season. The current total of 17 scores through the air this year has already surpassed last year's number, which was 12 in 13 games.

Olson's 130.69 pass-efficiency rating reflects the 158 completions and 11 interceptions he has collected in 274 attempts. The 6-foot-3 quarterback has thrown for 1,976 yards this season.

Craig Bragg became UCLA's all-time career receptions leader with the help of Olson. The senior wide receiver now has 180 receptions after he caught five passes against the Cougars to move himself past Kevin Jordan's mark of 179 grabs.

Kicking the "foot" into football for the Bruins

UCLA wide receiver Craig Bragg became the school's all-time leader in receptions this season with 180, passing former Bruin Kevin Jordan.

47.73 yards per punt is the best in the Pac-10. He has contributed to making UCLA the country's leader in net punting yards.

"He has done a great job," Dorrell said. "He has great hang time on his kicks."

Justin Medlock is a semifinalist for the 2004 Lou Groza Collegiate Place-Kicker Award. The sophomore has made 12 of 14 field goals with his longest being a 52-yarder in the season opener against Oklahoma State. Of his 33 extra-point attempts, 32 have flown between the uprights.

"(Special teams) is an area where we are being consistent," Dorrell said. "We just need some more consistency in some other areas of our football team."

Dorrell explained that his team's offense needs to build early momentum and operate a continuous attack. The defense has been "in position to make plays" but it has not followed through.

UCLA has allowed just five fourth-quarter touchdowns in nine games. All of them have come in the last three games; one went to Washington State last week.

Senior cornerback Matt Clark and junior linebacker Spencer Havner will continue to be the main sources of leadership for the Bruins' defense as they have both started the last 20 games.
