

Jones: Headline Café should be held partially responsible asked: Why and how did Rudolph get in this establishment anyway?

The incident took place at the Headline Café, where alcohol is served. The Oregon Liquor Control Commission regulations state that anyone entering the establishment after 9 p.m. must be older than 21. When someone does enter the Headline Café after 9 p.m. they are given a wristband to show they are of age.

According to the police, when they found Rudolph at his home he still had the wristband from the Headline Café on.

How is this guy, along with the other members that were with him and not charged, getting into the Headline Café without being of age?

This now makes the Headline Café somewhat responsible for the attack because if there were minors drinking alcohol (Rudolph was charged with being a minor in possession of alcohol), they either didn't check their identification or the players had fake IDs.

Or one has to wonder, do they receive special treatment and are they allowed into places because of their status as athletes?

The following weeks will reveal what really happened, but one thing is for sure: It has put a damper on the Civil War for me.

This week is supposed to be about figuring out who has the advantage and what team will earn a bowl invitation by beating its bitter rival. It's not about ungrateful athletes punching out service men on leave from war because of racial issues.

Volleyball: UW tops all-time best record at 22-0

both the school and the Pac-10 single-season records (4.17 and 4.92).

Lee has collected 423 digs this season for a Washington team that leads the conference with 1,343.

The Huskies (22-0 overall, 14-0 Pac-10) have occupied the top spot in the USA Today/CSTV Top 25 poll for seven weeks. With one more win, Washington will claim at least a part of the Pac-10 title. Its 22-0 run — which includes six defeats over nationally ranked teams has demoted the 21-0 start of the 1977 Huskies team.

The Washington schools will face off against No. 9 Stanford and No. 14 California this weekend.

Other Pac-10 notes

Seventeen student athletes signed a national letter of intent with a Pac-10 school during the early signing period. Stanford welcomed four signees, more than any other school. Arizona, Arizona State, Oregon and Washington did not receive any new additions by the deadline.

Arizona head coach Dave Rubio earned his 250th win with the Wildcats as they defeated Washington State on the road.

The Sun Devils (10-14, 5-10) have improved their conference and non-conference win totals by one match from last season with three matches left to play.

Four players on the Cal roster have landed at least 200 kills this season and one more has 164; however, the Bears are third in the Pac-10 in kills behind Washington and USC.

Cross country: Stanford men and women take ASU

All-American in cross country and indoor track along with breaking into the Oregon all-time list (eighth) in the 10,000 meters.

The No. 1 Stanford women defeated No. 7 Arizona State for their sixth straight team title. The men posted similar results, as the No. 2 Cardinal finished ahead of the No. 8 Sun Devils.

The women's West Regional proved to be one of the toughest in the country as the third-through-sixth-place teams earned at-large bids to the NCAA meet based on their regular season records. No. 17 UC Santa Barbara, No. 25 Washington, No. 31 UCLA and No. 32 Idaho will all be competing in Indiana on Nov. 22.

No. 6 Cal Poly was the only at-large team from the West Regional to receive a men's bid.
