seven yards per carry. Arrington is the only running back in the nation to rush for 100 yards or better in all 11 of his contests this season.

The Golden Bears will miss senior wide receiver Geoff McArthur for their final game due to a broken fibula he sustained against Southern Mississippi last week. He is Cal's all-time career receiving leader with 202 receptions, 57 from this season. McArthur is third in the Pac-10 with 5.18 receptions per game. The Los Angeles native scored seven touchdowns and collected a total of 862 yards through the air this season.

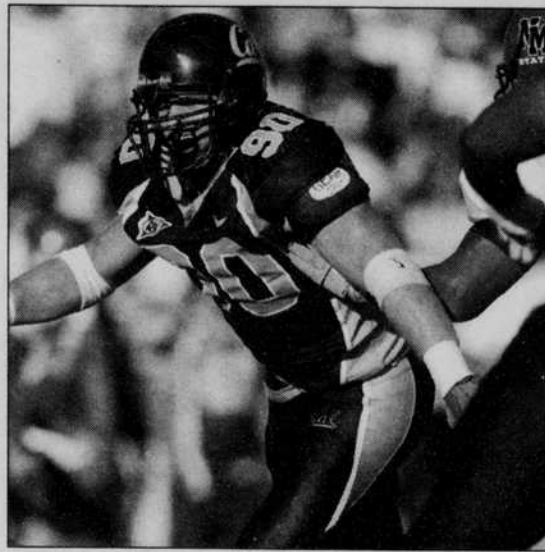

"I'm happy for those guys," Tedford said of his seniors. "They've worked very hard and provided such fine leadership for this team. It's nice for those players to get recognition as being some of the top performers in the conference."

As a team, Cal leads the conference in scoring offense (37.3 points per game), rushing offense (260 yards), and total offense (494.7 yards). The Bears' pass offense has been mediocre, averaging 234.7 yards per game.

Texas Tech (7-4, 5-3 Big 12) will most likely use an airborne strategy, as it owns the nation's best pass offense, which averages 388.7 yards per game. Senior quarterback Sonny Cumbie leads the nation in passing with 4,222 yards.

The Red Raiders have outscored opponents 389-283 and have recorded two 70-point games. They are ranked first in the Big 12 and sixth nationally in total offense with 483.5 yards per game. Their second-ranked scoring offense, at 35.4 points per game, trails only Oklahoma (36.1).

Senior wide receiver Trey Haverty leads the conference in receptions per game with 6.27, while teammate Jarrett Hicks was second averaging 6.09. Hicks, a sophomore, leads all Big 12 receivers with 1,108 yards and 11 touchdowns. He averages a conference-best 100.7 reception yards per game.

For the fifth consecutive year, Texas Tech will be participating in a postseason game.

Pac-10 regular season finale. After the game, oranges rained down onto the field from fans signifying now-answered hopes of a trip to the national title game.

"It was a big win...we got the whole season done in the fashion that we wanted to," Carroll said. "It is an interesting way to go about a football season."

When asked how his Trojans will continue to keep focused having lost only one game in the last two seasons, Carroll said they will keep "going about our business like we always do."

"Our players expected to be in this situation, and they've dealt with it really well," he said. "We're not going to change our focus or anything that we do at this point. By no means do we feel that our season is over or opportunities or challenges are over yet. This is a fantastic matchup in the Orange Bowl with Oklahoma."
